VIET PEACE OUTLOOK 'BETTER'

BILL SAID STRONG . . .

Open Housing Accord Seen

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Agreement has been reached among realtors, homebuilders, church groups, minority representatives and the governor's office on a strong open housing bill with minimal exemptions, Sen. Donald Elrod said Tuesday.

"I think we can all work together now to see that it is passed," Elrod said.

"All of these groups seem to be 100% in favor of the proposal. There should be no disagreement."

Like Colorado's

Elrod, who headed a Legislative Council study committee probe on the problem, said the Nebraska bill will be "approximately equal to the Colorado bill in strength and enforcement procedures."

The Colorado law is considered to be substantially stronger than federal legislation. Colorado exempts only rooms offered for rent in a single-family dwelling occupied by the owner or lessee as his household.

Elrod said general agreement was reached by various economic, religious, ethnic and governmental representatives at a 2½-hour meeting last Thursday night.

Barnett Representative

The group huddled in Gov. Norbert Tiemann's conference room, Elrod said. Tiemann's legal counsel, Robert Barnett, represented the governor.

Tiemann told his weekly news conference the next morning that he would sponsor an open housing act with few exemptions.

The law would be administered by the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission.

Elrod's committee cited the Colorado law in recommending enactment of a state open housing act.

Very Close

The compromise agreement is "very close to what our committee wanted," the Grand Island legislator said.

Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha said he believes the results of last week's meeting left all interested groups "very near to agreement."

Danner's open housing proposal in 1967 was killed by a 28-21 vote.

WRECKED AIRLINER LIES IN WATER

Efforts were made Tuesday to tow the wreckage of a Scandanavian Airlines jetliner to shore after the plane crashed into the ocean Monday off the southern California coast, killing four passengers and leaving another 11 missing. Thirty persons were rescued.

Explosions Kill 25 On Enterprise

Pearl Harbor (AP) — Explosions and fire set off by a bomb which tumbled from a landing plane killed 13 men and injured 64 aboard the nuclear-powered U.S. aircraft carrier Enterprise on Tuesday.

The 85,000-ton carrier, world's biggest warship, limped into harbor with 200 feet of her after section scorched and smoke-blackened.

A naval source said the bomb set off a series of 11 or 12 blasts on the carrier deck. The remains of two aircraft could be seen amid the heaps of twisted metal left by the explosions and fire.

47 Injured

The giant warship's nuclear power plant was not affected.

A spokesman at Tripler Army Hospital said 47 injured men had arrived, some by airlift from the carrier, and that 17 others were expected. The Enterprise has a complement of 5,000.

Doctors ordered 10 men flown to the Brooks Army Hospital in Texas which has a special burn treatment center.

The disaster struck the Enterprise as she was taking part in exercises in the Pacific about 75 miles southwest of Honolulu Tuesday morning.

The exercises were in preparation for deployment to the Western Pacific.

'Shooed Away'

A Honolulu photographer said a plane carrying photographers to the carrier was "shooed away" by a Coast Guard plane.

The ship was commissioned Nov. 26, 1961. She is under the command of Capt. Kent L. Lee, 46. His present address is Piedmont, Calif.

Doug Bruckner, a news broadcaster for station KHVH-TV, flew over the carrier in a helicopter. He reported: "We figure 10 planes were destroyed, at least two of them reduced to ashes. There were three holes ripped in the flight deck by explosions. The holes range in size from 15 to 25 feet wide."

LBJ Urges U.S. To Press Quest

. . . ADDRESS IS FAREWELL

© New York Times Service

Washington — President Johnson urged the nation Tuesday night to press "the quest for peace" in Vietnam, the Middle East and nuclear arms control and to commit itself firmly at home to the fulfillment of his social programs.

In a combined farewell address and State of the Union message to a joint session of Congress, Johnson said the prospects for peace in Vietnam were "better today than at any time since North Vietnam began its invasion (of South Vietnam) with its regular forces more than four years ago."

Despite Invasion

He called upon the country to "seek areas of agreement" with the Soviet Union on a number of issues" where the interests of both nations, and of world peace, would be served, despite the invasion of Czechoslovakia last summer and any distaste Americans might have for Soviet totalitarianism.

As part of "the quest for a durable peace" the President specifically urged swift Senate ratification of the treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons, the resumption of talks with the Soviet Union for limitations on anti-ballistic missile defenses and offensive nuclear weaponry and "a settlement of the armed hostility that exists" in the Middle East.

"It is a threat not only to Israel and the Arab states, but to the entire world," he said.

The wording of the President's request in the speech for an extension of the 10% income surtax into the next fiscal year made clear that he and President elect Nixon had reached a compromise on this issue as a result of behind-the-scenes bargaining.

Nixon Agrees

Johnson said the inflationary state of the economy did not permit the cancellation of the surtax and that Nixon had agreed to accept this finding until he could determine otherwise.

The tone of the President's final message to the nation was calm, deliberate and brief, and lacked the strident quality that has characterized some of his speeches in the past.

But he stressed that the nation must honor the moral commitment contained in the domestic social and economic legislation he has shepherded through Congress in the five years of his administration by adequately funding these programs in the future.

Johnson said many of the legislative achievements of his administration had "completed the full cycle — from idea, to enactment, to a place in the lives of citizens all across our country."

"I wish it were possible to say that everything the Congress and the administration achieved during this period had completed that cycle. But much of what we have committed needs additional funding to become a tangible reality," he said.

"Yet the very existence of those commitments — those promises to the American people — is a kind of reality in itself," Johnson continued. "Breaking those promises would be a tragedy for our country. This much is certain: no one man or group of men made those commitments alone. Congress and the executive branch wrote them into law. They have all the moral force that the American political system can summon when it acts as one."

Recommendations

To fulfil these commitments the President urged Congress to:

—Approve "sharply" increased support for the model cities program "where blueprints of change are being prepared in 150 cities." White House officials said Johnson would ask for $750 million for model cities in coming fiscal year 1970, with an increase to $1.2 billion in fiscal 1971. Last year the President asked for $500 million and received $312 million.

—Funds to construct more than 500,000 housing units for needy families in fiscal 1970 under the housing act provisions.

—The creation of a new urban development bank under a partnership between government and private ownership to provide development capital for communities.

—An over-all rise in Social Security benefits of 13%, with an increase from $55 to $80 a month for those who now receive minimum benefits.

—The enactment of so-called "kiddie care" legislation to provide "decent medical care" for needy expectant mothers and their children during the first year of life and medical benefits for children and impoverished adults who suffer major and prolonged illnesses.

In another area of domestic legislation, the President urged Congress to permit the executive to create a draft lottery or random selection system to replace the current method of inducting men in the order of their birth date, with the oldest going first.

School Board Slates Boundary Shifts, Plans To Offer Language In 7th Grade

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln principals were authorized to begin registering students for next fall on the basis of some tentative changes in school boundaries and with a foreign language offered in the seventh grade.

Action on transfer requests, previously handled individually at the time of application, will be withheld until preliminary registrations are completed and the requests can be reviewed as a whole, according to the Board of Education.

School board members Tuesday night unanimously approved Supt. John Prasch's recommendations for preliminary registration with the intention of examining actual enrollments in comparison with projection on which the tentative boundaries were set.

Cut East Junior

In addition to setting boundaries for the new Goodrich Junior High, expected to open next fall, the changes would have the effect of reducing the size of the junior high at East. By limiting the number of seventh graders starting at East, the school may be able to handle a junior high until a new facility is built in the area, Prasch pointed out.

Goodrich is expected to open with some 210 junior high students from Belmont, West Lincoln and Air Park West as well as the Belmont sixth grade classes.

Six per cent of the total student population, 1,855 pupils, attend schools in other than the normal attendance area, the board was told. The superintendent explained that permits allowed to start when a school was not full have caused overcrowding in some sections of the city and may cause overbuilding if not controlled.

May Decide

Prasch said that the board may decide to grant as many permits as it has in the past, but that criteria for allowing transfers should be determined on factors other than that there is room in a building.

Board members also agreed to offer beginning French and Spanish in the seventh grade as electives which could meet the fine arts requirement. However, classes will not be established unless there are 30 registrants, and after a class is begun, it will be discontinued if enrollments drop below 20, the board decided.

Admitting that the district has had trouble developing a strong four-year foreign language sequence, Prasch noted that the district "needs to know how many pupils want to take it at the junior high level" to respond to arguments for a six-year program.

The boundary changes tentatively approved were:

—Goodrich: Commencing at the intersection of the northern boundary of the district and 33rd, extended, continuing southward on 33rd to the CB&Q tracks, southwest on the tracks to the State Fair Grounds, then following the northern boundary of the Fair Grounds, National Guard property, and Oak Creek Park until intersecting with Holdrege, continuing west on Holdrege to the western boundary of the district.

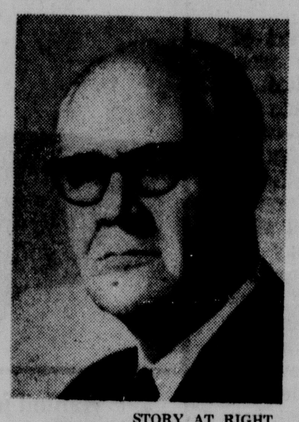

—Belmont sixth graders of the Belmont attendance area will be assigned to Goodrich.

—Meadow Lane sixth graders will be assigned to Culler.

—All Eastridge sixth graders will be assigned to Lefler.

—Southeast-East High boundary: beginning at the corner of 52nd and Sumner, continuing east to Roberts Park around the park's southern boundary and continuing eastward on Franklin to May Morley boundary, then southward on this boundary.

Tractor Mishap Near Steinauer Fatal To Farmer

A 60-year-old Steinauer man was killed in a tractor accident Tuesday.

Lloyd Wolters was pulling a hayrack with a farm tractor going eastbound on a county road when the tractor ran off the road into a ditch on the north side and up the embankment, according to the Pawnee County Sheriff's Office.

Wolters apparently fell backwards off the tractor and was pinned under it, the sheriff's office reported.

46 Governors Set To Attend Inaugural Event

Washington (AP) — Governors of 46 states and all territories except American Samoa have accepted invitations to attend next Monday's inaugural ceremonies here, it was announced Tuesday.

J. Willard Marriott, chairman of the 1969 Inaugural Committee, said governors of Texas, New Mexico and Nevada will send representatives while Louisiana has not indicated whether it will be represented.

Morrison Doesn't Rule Out Running

. . . FOR GOVERNOR

Former Gov. Frank Morrison Tuesday said he is not ruling out the possibility of running for governor in 1970.

But, Morrison noted, he considers that possibility to be "very, very remote."

Asked about reports circulating among Lincoln Democrats that he may be ready to re-enter gubernatorial politics, Morrison responded:

"I suppose anything is possible since Frank Borman and his associates went to the moon. I never discount anything."

But, Morrison said, "at the present time, I don't have any intention" of seeking the governorship.

The former three-term governor, now an Omaha attorney, said he is busy practicing law and engaged in other activities.

Morrison served as governor from 1961 to 1967. He was defeated by Republican Carl Curtis in a U.S. Senate contest in 1966.

Osceola attorney William Norton, former chairman of the Nebraska Power Review Board, is expected to seek the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Gov. Norbert Tiemann, who won the first Republican gubernatorial victory in 10 years in 1966, has not indicated whether he will seek a second term.

Great Train Robber Gets 25-Year Term

Aylesbury, England (UPI) — Antique dealer Bruce Reynolds, alleged mastermind of the world's largest money theft, was sentenced to 25 years in prison Tuesday.

Reynolds, 37, pleaded guilty to charges of robbery and conspiracy in the Great Train Robbery that netted his band $7.3 million. He was the last of 14 men to be tried for the record snatch of used five-pound notes from a London-Glasgow mail train Aug. 8, 1963.

Pfc. Gillham Dies In Action

Washington (AP) — The Defense Department announced Tuesday that Army Pfc. Richard G. Gillham of Grand Island, Neb., has been killed in action in Vietnam. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Gillham of Grand Island.

Gillhm, serving with the 9th Infantry Division, reportedly died after a military vehicle he was riding on struck an enemy mine. A 1966 graduate of Grand Island High School, he attended Wayne State College for one semester before entering the army in March.

Nixon Backs 10% Surtax

Key Biscayne, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Nixon said Tuesday night he supports President Johnson's recommendation that the 10% income surtax be continued.

Nixon issued a statement saying he still feels the tax should be ended as soon as the Vietnam war, the budget and economic conditions permit.

Reports Say Galbraith To Be New ASCS Head

William Galbraith of Beemer, former national commander of the American Legion, has apparently been selected to head the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, reports indicated.

Galbraith admitted Tuesday night that "I have been in and have been interviewed for a position with the Department of Agriculture," but preferred that "any announcement would come from Chancellor Hardin."

Hardin, who is on leave from the University of Nebraska, would be Galbraith's superior as secretary of agriculture in the Nixon administration.

Galbraith said he expects to attend the inaugural ceremonies for President-elect Nixon Monday.

Galbraith, who will be 43 next week is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a longtime Beemer area livestock feeder and farmer.

He was chairman of the Nebraska Centennial Commission, co-chairman of the Governor's Conference on Education and Youth and recipient of the 1968 Nebraska Builder Award. Galbraith was also Nixon's coordinator of Nebraska veterans in last fall's campaign.

John P. Davies' Security Clearance Reinstated

(C) New York Times News Service

Washington — A man whose name appeared on the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's list of "China hands" working in the state Department to undermine American policy toward China has had his security clearance reinstated. John Paton Davies Jr. was dismissed from the Foreign Service 14 years ago although hearings had unearthed no evidence of disloyalty.

Army Stronger By July

Saigon — The South Vietnamese army will not be strong enough to fill in for a reduced American troop commitment before July, top U.S. military officials said. Plans are afoot in Saigon to ask for a pullout of some American forces soon, but the officials believe an early departure would leave South Vietnam's army unprepared.

Stories Worry Israel

Jerusalem — Stories circulating in Arab countries of Israeli forces massing at their borders are causing concern in Jerusalem. Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol said Tuesday such reports were "utterly groundless." (More on Page 21.)

Britain Accused Of Racism

London — Representatives of four East African countries at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London said they would not discuss the problem of migration until Britain erases its slim quota on the number of non-white British citizens it will admit each year. The countries, which accused Britain of racism, all have policies against businessmen of Asian descent.

Economy Jumps 9%

Washington — The basic gauge of the nation's economy, the gross national product, indicated in figures for the last quarter of 1968 that the business boom may be abating somewhat. The GNP for the whole year, however, jumped nine per cent to a total $860.7 billion.

Tax-Sharing Recommended

Washington — Tax sharing with the states was recommended to President-elect Nixon by his task force on urban affairs. A similar plan was advanced to the Johnson administration four years ago. Nixon's task force also set a negative income tax and evenly distributed welfare aid as national goals.

Mitchell To Eavesdrop

Washington — The power to eavesdrop, spurned by crime fighters of the Johnson administration, will be exercised by Richard M. Nixon's attorney general, John N. Mitchell. Mitchell made known his plans before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which informally approved his nomination without a dissenting vote. (More on Page 2.)

LBJ Farewell Address Reflects Many Moods

© New York Times Service

By MAX FRANKEL

Washington — To reflect his many moods in this final week, Lyndon Baines Johnson's farewell address might have been a catalogue of successes and satisfactions, or an accounting of his accumulated resentments. It might have been a defiant defense of the war in Vietnam or a subtle insistence that the country will soon regret not having him to kick around any more.

But essentially, it was none of these. The President's pride was muted, and the turmoil in the land that persuaded him to retire was virtually ignored. Above all, it was a plea that the country get on with the search for peace and that it keep the promises to its poor and ill-treated citizens.

The promises, he argued, would not lapse with his administration because they have been written into law by members of both parties. Pointedly, he quoted from some of those laws pledging a decent home for every family, more adequate provision for the aged and infirm and the elimination of poverty in the midst of plenty.

He offered some programs to redeem those pledges even in his last and tightest budget and he warned that "breaking those promises would be a tragedy for our country."

It was because he wanted new funds for these domestic programs while still showing a budget surplus that Johnson foresaw a need to extend the 10% surtax on incomes into mid-1970. And it was to help this conception to survive under the new Republican administration that he held up his speech until President-elect Richard M. Nixon was persuaded to offer at least a qualified expression of support.

Nixon yielded a compromise, namely that he would support the recommendation until he and Congress finds facts that contradict it.

There was nothing else about Nixon in the speech except a plea that he be spared from attack by those who seek narrow personal or partisan advantage. If Johnson wished to complain of some of the attack on him over the years, he did so only in an opening passage that traced unrest and war and poverty and conflict "back through several years and several administrations."

World News

Price Rise, Crime Said Key Battles

Washington (UPI) — Testimony by Republican cabinet appointees indicated Tuesday that the Nixon administration would greatly expand the use of electronic eavesdropping in fighting crime and would fight inflation even at the risk of increased unemployment.

These views emerged during Senate confirmation hearings for John N. Mitchell to be attorney general, David M. Kennedy to be treasury secretary, Melvin R. Laird to be defense secretary and Robert H. Finch to be secretary of health, education and welfare.

All seemed to be headed for easy confirmation immediately after Richard M. Nixon is sworn in Monday as president.

David Packard, the controversial choice for deputy defense secretary, had no time to testify before the Senate Armed Services Committee and was asked to return Wednesday.

Mitchell, a senior partner in Nixon's New York law firm, told the Senate Judiciary Committee he would end the Johnson administration's policy of limiting use of wiretapping, eavesdropping and other electronic surveillance to national security cases.

Asked how his conduct of the job would differ from Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark — whom Nixon had made an issue in the law-and-order phase of his campaign — Mitchell replied: "I believe I can point out one difference — the extent to which electronic surveillance may be used, particularly in organized crime."

Kennedy, a Chicago banker, told the Senate Finance Committee that the new administration's first order of business" would be to bring inflation under control. He said he would try to "take the inflationary steam out of the economy with a minimal increase in unemployment."

Asked what he considered minimal," Kennedy said it would be "certainly somewhat higher than the present figure" of 3.3% of the labor force out of work.

Laird, congressman from Wisconsin, said his primary job as defense secretary would be to maintain U.S. military superiority so that the nation would never "fall into the position where we are forced to negotiate from weakness."

Harris Democratic National Chairman

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma was elected Democratic national chairman Tuesday after Hubert H. Humphrey and Lawrence F. O'Brien urged campaign financing reform to provide an alternative to "seeking contributions from the few rich."

Without a contest or dissent, the 38-year-old first-term senator was elected by the Democratic National Committee on Vice President Humphrey's recommendation.

Harris assured the committee that his dual roles as a senator and party chairman would be "mutually compatible and mutually reinforcing."

In his farewell speech, O'Brien, going into business, said the Democrats could never match the Republicans dollar for dollar in campaign contributions. He urged the committee "to develop a proposal for financing presidential elections with federal funds and that the committee work with its leaders in Congress to develop appropriate legislation."

Humphrey, who called for creation of a national policy council to work with the committee, said, "Elections must not be decided by the party which has the most money."

"It is wrong, wrong, wrong to go around seeking contributions from the few rich for a campaign you say is for the many," said the defeated 1968 presidential candidate.

"Equal time," he said, "is an empty concept if the time must be bought."

Humphrey said "there must be a better system" than the one now used but "I do not know the answer."

The vice president said a national policy council was needed "as a voice for disenfranchised Democrats and as a coordinating group for the determination of basic party policy."

He noted that Democrats in states such as New York have no national or statewide voice such as a governor or senator but nevertheless gave their electoral votes to the Democratic ticket last November.

Cosmonauts May Attempt Linkup

COSMONAUT . . . Lt. Col. Vladimir Shatalov.

Moscow (AP) — Cosmonaut Vladimir Shatalov rode the Soviet Union's Soyuz 4 spaceship into earth orbit Tuesday in what may be the first phase of a space experiment involving other men.

A television broadcast from the roomy cabin showed what appeared to be an empty seat beside Shatalov. Soviet officials have indicated that Soyuz-type craft, plagued by trouble in the past, are designed ultimately to carry at least three cosmonauts.

There was talk in Moscow, unconfirmed, that a second craft would be sent aloft with two or more men for an attempt to link up with Soyuz 4 and transfer one man to ride with Shatalov.

Correspondent Jan Risko of the Czechoslovak news agency CTK quoted unofficial sources in a dispatch to Prague as saying another manned spaceship would be launched, possibly Wednesday, for such a maneuver.

The Russians have yet to match Americas' repeated manned linkups. Neither nation has achieved a crew transfer in orbit.

There was no indication that Shatalov's mission, launched 19 days after three American astronauts returned from circling the moon in Apollo 8, was to become a moon shot.

Official announcements gave no details of the specific purpose of Shatalov's flight, but reported his condition was good.

Red Ambush Crushed

Saigon (AP) — Allied forces killed more than 300 enemy troops in major fighting east, west and south of Saigon Tuesday the U.S. Command reported. The heaviest action cost the enemy 122 dead when an ambush of a U.S. convoy was crushed, a spokesman said.

However, early Wednesday enemy gunners fired 15 heavy mortar rounds into the U.S. 9th Division's headquarters at Dong Tam, 45 miles southwest of Saigon. Reports said one U.S. soldier and two government troops were killed and 26 Americans wounded. Eight buildings were said to have been destroyed and 16 others damaged.

Some 240 miles northeast of Saigon, an 8,200-man allied force continued to maneuver in an attempt to trap an estimated 800 enemy troops on the Batangan Peninsula.

Biggest Since Korea

Two battalions of Marines stormed ashore on the peninsula Monday in what was called the largest seaborne attack since the Korean War. The Marines, U.S. Army troops and Vietnamese regulars in the operation have reported only light contact with the enemy.

The U.S. Command said the ambush that failed was near Tay Ninh, 35 miles northwest of Saigon. Enemy troops opened up with antitank rockets and heavy automatic weapons fire as the supply convoy neared what is normally considered a safe area.

American armored personnel carriers with machine guns poured fire into the ambushers, and helicopter gunships and jet fighters joined the battle in minutes. Finally an armored relief column reached the scene. At the end of the seven-hour battle, 122 enemy bodies were counted.

7 GIs Killed

U.S. losses were given as seven killed and 10 wounded. Two trucks were damaged.

Another 126 enemy troops were reported killed in two actions in Kien Phong Province southwest of Saigon. Both actions were heavily supported by American air power. Four American advisers were wounded and Vietnamese casualties were termed light.

In the Batangan Peninsula action, the chief opposition was the monsoon weather, with heavy rains flooding some landing zones.

New NU East Campus College Is Suggested

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

A change of name and the establishment of a new college of the University of Nebraska East Campus was proposed by the College of Agriculture and Home Economics Advisory Council here Tuesday.

The council, composed of 95 members from throughout the state, suggested that the home economics department become the College of Home Economics.

Reference now made to the College of Agriculture and Home Economics would come under separate headings of the College of Agriculture when discussing agriculture and the College of Home Economics when discussing the home economics part of the university.

Strong support came from the council for construction of a new home economics building. Members of the council noted that a structure built more than 60 years ago to accommodate 40 students is now in a poor state of condition being called upon to furnish a home for more than 800 students.

Individual council members were disturbed that the proposed increases in budget for the 1969-71 biennium had been reduced from a requirement of $8.9 million to near $2.2 million.

Warning Sounded

It was explained by council members that the fields of agriculture and home economics offer some of the greatest opportunities for advancement in Nebraska and that by failing to properly fund education and Extension a condition of "merely marking time becomes our program" while youth of Nebraska become discouraged with state progress.

School Board Eyes Building Guidelines

Guidelines for long-range building plans for the Lincoln school district which will include a rating system of existing buildings and will not limit utilization or construction to the normal elementary-junior high-senior high breakdowns were presented to the Board of Education Tuesday night.

Supt. John Prasch prepared the guidelines for the board's future consideration. A meeting of the school board, voted in executive session, was scheduled for 8 a.m. next Tuesday to discuss the guidelines.

Utilization, maintenance, rehabilitation and construction of buildings and plants should be in accordance with certain requirements, he said, including provision of facilities on the basis of educational program decisions, making the school program equally available to all students and minimizing transportation costs and use of temporary facilities.

The review "must include a rating system to determine adequacy of individual buildings," Prasch declared.

"It is important to get a plan that is cohesive and looks at the entire plant as a single entity. Otherwise we will be faced with large capital needs which only can be met through a bond issue," he said.

The superintendent called for a "contingency management plan" to provide flexibility. "The plan must be described in terms of the contingencies which establish the time table."

The plan would be prepared with the assumption that students will attend the school to which they are assigned by attendance boundary lines, and that locations of boundaries will "attempt to provide" elementary buildings within one mile of residence and junior highs within two miles of residence.

Boundaries should be drawn so that pupils from the same attendance district all progress to a common school when moving to the next attendance unit, he proposed.

Consumer Education Hike Urged

Increased emphasis on consumer education in all areas of home economics in the Lincoln public schools was proposed to the Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday night.

Mrs. Virgiline Cronkite, home economics consultant, gave the recommendation top priority for strengthening home economics education in the secondary schools because of changes in the law providing funds for vocational programs.

Amendments to the federal law designate large portions of the funds for programs established in economically depressed areas and emphasizing consumer education, she declared.

More emphasis on the vocational opportunities in home economics related occupations also was suggested to the school board.

Other recommendations included expanding in-service training for teachers, including workshops and visitations, limiting class size to the number of student stations provided, increasing emphasis on management principles, develop and utilize a system's approach to learning and developing a curriculum guide specifically for special education students.

Overlapping of some aspects of home economics courses with other curriculum offerings in social sciences, business education and health should be reviewed, he added.

In other business Tuesday the board was told that about 75% of the district's students are in classes of 31 or less, while only 10% of the students are in classes of 35 or larger.

Prasch noted that in many schools with large enrollments and no room to provide more classes, a larger supportive staff of counselors, special teachers, general assignment and floating teachers and teacher aides is provided.

Board attorney Willis Hecht reported that suits filed against the school districts as well as other governmental subdivisions of the county for a refund of taxes are asking a total of $127,800 from the school district.

Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph is seeking $127,000 from the schools, and Olson Construction Co. is asking for $800.

In other business the board:

—Set summer school dates for June 10—July 29.

—Approved the bid of Hockenberg Fixture and Supply of Omaha, $22,138, for supplying food service equipment for the remodeled administration building and Bethany School.

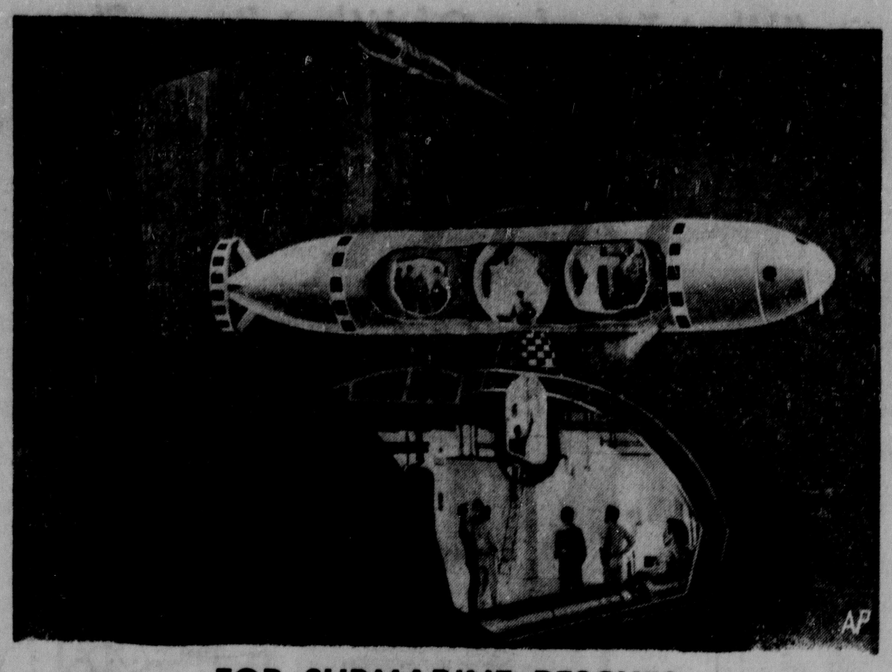

LEA Seeking New Benefits

The Lincoln Education Association has asked the Board of Education to add several benefits to the school employe retirement plan, including provisions for optional retirement age, payments to surviving spouse and children and disability payments after 20 years of continuous employment.

Retirement coverage for all persons who were full-time employes of the district prior to the effective date of the plan, March 15, 1963, also was requested by the LEA.

The proposals were made in accordance with negotiation procedures established for the school board and LEA, approved by the board Tuesday night. The adopted procedures are nearly identical to those used last year.

The LEA, in a letter to the board, had affirmed the form of negotiations procedures and asked for an informal meeting with the board to discuss salaries and wages, grievance procedures, fringe benefits, leaves of absences, conditions of employment — including class size and teacher load, in-service education and curriculum studies and revisions.

Kirby Begins His Life Prison Sentence

Omaha (UPI) — Ronald Eugene Kirby, 25, Tuesday was taken to the State Penitentiary to begin a life prison sentence following a first degree murder conviction.

Kirby was found guilty by a District Court jury Friday night which imposed the sentence of life in the Nebraska Penitentiary.

Defense counsel Tuesday filed a motion for a new trial as two deputy sheriffs took the prisoner to the state penal complex for safe keeping until a new trial can be argued. No date was set for the hearing on a new trial.

Kirby was convicted of the Sept. 20 slaying of Gilbert A. Batten Jr. The victim was forced to kneel in a basement at 3724 Ohio Street and was shot between the eyes by Kirby. Kirby said the shooting was an accident.

The new trial motion, filed by assistant public defender Bennett Hornstein, said there were 20 errors or irregularities in the week-long trial before District Judge Rudolph Tesar.

Also accused in the first degree murder charge are Orval John Hinz, 26, and Robert Chester Walker, 25. No date has been set for their trial.

Dan Witthuhn, Arnold, also a member of the team, placed 10th in all classes and second in sheep.

Other members of the team were Mike England, North Platte, and Beth Popken, Brady.

Plane Crashes During Take-Off; 6 Slightly Hurt

Ogallala (AP) — Six persons suffered minor cuts and bruises Tuesday when their light plant crashed on take-off from the airport here.

The six were taking off for Denver to attend the Western Livestock Show.

The craft was barely off the ground when it nosed down and ended up in a snow drift.

Occupants were the pilot, Virgil Lehmkuhler, and passengers, Carl Hoit, Ed Proshaska, his daughter, Mrs. Roger Rankin, and Mrs. Rankin's two children, Todd, 6, and Stephanie, 4.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It's just a simple little complicated matter. That's the way you might describe the request of St. Elizabeth Hospital for an amendment to the zoning code to permit doctors' offices and certain other medically related facilities to be constructed on adjoining, hospital-owned land.

This matter has been kicking around for some time but the hospital seems unable to get it off dead center. From the hospital's point of view, the matter would not seem very complicated, at all.

It is not hard to understand why St. Elizabeth would want these medically related operations doing business on their property. It is a matter of economics. For one thing, the institution would derive some income from the use of its land.

Secondly, it would hope to benefit in terms of added customers, to use the word loosely, but the proximity of such things as doctors' offices, offices of medical societies, charitable public health associations, retirement homes, etc.

Whatever hospitalization would be needed by people who make use of these facilities, St. Elizabeth would expect to provide it. This is laudable since the nearer to capacity a hospital can operate, the more efficient it is and the lower the cost to all patients.

From the point of view of these auxiliary operations, they would consider it a benefit to be located so close to a hospital since at least a part of their activity includes some patronage of a hospital on the part of some of those they seek to serve.

Now, those are the plain and simple facts and we can see nothing objectionable to any of them. There is no effort to undercut in any way the other two hospitals in Lincoln and if the total hospital bed capacity of Lincoln is maintained where it ought to be, there would be no adverse effects upon anyone else as a result of the proposed change in the ordinance.

Councilman Tom Allman is a little disturbing when he says that it "doesn't make sense to let a hospital go into a variety of businesses." St. Elizabeth is not intending to "go into a variety of businesses."

What it is attempting to do is establish in an area where it has ample room a group of medically related operations for the sake of the economy and efficiency of all concerned, including the people of Lincoln and surrounding area who are potential patients.

There is nothing devious about this. It is done in city after city and often with much greater concentration than seen in the St. Elizabeth operation. Councilman Allman is injecting a consideration that just is not valid.

Three things are valid and the city should have no difficulty with them. One of them is the validity of the medical complex type of approach proposed by St. Elizabeth. Another is the propriety of such uses in the area, from a zoning point of view. A third is the matter of taxes as it came up before the last City Council meeting.

★

Presumably, the zoning question is not one that interferes with the hospital's plans, in the minds of the council and planning officials. The question on taxes is whether anything done on the St. Elizabeth land is tax-exempt because the hospital is tax-exempt.

Obviously, this should not be the case. Doctors' offices, for instance, ought to be taxed when located on hospital land, just as they would be any place else.

In short, anything that would be taxed elsewhere ought to be taxed if located on hospital land. The hospital should not and does not want to be means by which otherwise tax-paying operations escape their tax responsibilities.

What matters here is that the city expeditiously make provision for this and proceed to grant Et. Elizabeth its request if it successfully meets other tests.

'What Transfer Of What Power?'

Benefits To Veterans

While we can appreciate the good intentions of Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha in proposing a state bonus for veterans of recent wars, we cannot go along with his proposal. We have never had much faith in the idea of a bonus for veterans, noting that there are other benefit programs which are very laudable.

But a bonus implies that veterans, somehow, should be compensated for serving their country and we don't think most of them feel that way. What has the veteran got for risking his life, perhaps, in the service of his country? Quite plainly, he has his country and that is all he wants.

He has the right to live where he pleases, work at what suits him best, vote for candidates for office with a secret ballot. He has all the political rights that are guaranteed him by the Constitution such as a trial by jury, due process of law, free speech and more.

He has the opportunity to travel as he pleases, invest his money as he sees fit, bargain with his employer, send his children to a good school and to do a multitude of other things as a citizen of a free and democratic nation. This is the very reason he served in the armed forces and it has nothing at all to do with any bonus.

He doesn't have to worry about political vengeance being taken against him, about police brutality, about his religious beliefs hurting him or the indoctrination of his children in an ideology that is oppressive to him. By serving in the armed forces, he helped to guarantee for himself and others the kind of life he holds to be important to him. That guarantee is the most outstanding thing he could have and it alone is worth all the sacrifice he made and the dangers he encountered. We think it is wrong to compromise the situation with a financial gimmick such as a bonus.

The Long Gray Time

The February blahs came early this year. By a month, at least. But then again, so did winter.

And the season moved in with a determination that was only intensified by memories of last year when no scoopable snow fell from fall until spring. Even the sentimental sponsors of a white Christmas were subdued to a mere whisper this year as drifts piled up and ice thickened to a point where holiday plans and travel were badly disrupted.

The white, white snow is a dingy gray. The icy streets linger on. The gaiety of the Yuletide is past. The flu bug romps from household to household. Notices of car taxes due are to be found in every mailbox. And the voice of the Internal Revenue Service is heard throughout the land.

But take heart. The voice of the turtle will ultimately drown out that of the IRS. Posies will bloom again and snow tires will go into storage. Daily discussions will turn from leaking roofs and high furnace bills to the best cure for crabgrass and high air-conditioning bills. Sunburn will replace frostbite. Away with the boots and on with the swim suits.

Word comes back from southern California from a retired co-worker there. The comment on Midwestern weather news is casual and a trifle smug as he mentioned the 80-degree temperatures there. But, reading between the lines, we think he is a bit homesick for native climes. Utopia is without challenge or variety.

We conclude with a profound remark overheard on a street corner a day or two ago. "Well," pronounced the local Abe Weatherwise, "there's one thing about it. When we get to February, January's out of the way."

Nixon In The Super Bowl

WASHINGTON — For lovers of the underdog — the types who used to root against the New York Yankees on general principle and who voted for Harry Truman not least because he put up such an admirable fight against the odds — this is one of those rare times of glowing satisfaction. The Jets have beaten the Colts, and underdog-lovers everywhere have found their tattered faith preserved once more from imminent extinction.

The Jet triumph was particularly sweet — even for those who had nothing against the vaunted Baltimore team—because the New Yorkers were not only being sneered at for themselves, they were also the representatives of what was universally regarded as an inferior system (the American League) that was hopelessly over its head in challenging the champions of an unbeatable institution (the National League).

The underdog-lover is a peculiar breed of cat. He is a dogged romantic who lives in the constant hope (usually dashed by some monstrous cruelty of logical expectation) that systems and institutions and processes cannot, in the end, dominate the sheer quirkiness of fate, let alone the indomitable cussedness of human beings. What distinguishes a true underdog-lover is that he hates, loathes and opposes on sight anything that can can be called a "sure thing."

Moreover, the underdog-lover in the nature of his faith is bound to be an unrepentant and unyielding humanist who will instantly spindle, fold or mutilate his paycheck upon receipt, and who, if necessary, would rise from a sickbed to escape the impersonal drive of Muzak, or any other dehumanized imposition.

☆ ☆ ☆

How sweet it was, then, for men of this recalcitrant stripe to watch the unfettered individualist, Namath, artfully confound the great Colt machine — that grinding collection of huge gears and powerful cogs so impressively coordinated into an irresistible force that when its quarterback came down with a sore arm, an interchangeable part could be substituted without noticeable effect. What could be more satisfying than the spectacle of a big-mouthed human being triumphing over so flawless and omnipotent a machine?

Even the coaches filled the bill to the underdog-lovers' prescription — Ewbank with his human imperfections, short, overweight, and ludicrous in his baseball cap; Shula in the image of his team, tall, strong, chiseled from steel.

All this has a certain relevance in Washington (whose football fans suffer more than their share of individuality and human imperfection in the Redskins) on the eve of the Nixon administration's arrival. The Jets' achievement ought perhaps particularly to be noticed by the capital press corps, including this dues-paying member.

It was the sports press after all, who propagated the myth of the Colts' invincibility; and of the inferiority of the American League and all its teams, players and other impedimenta, and of the certainty that humiliation and destruction awaited Namath when he took the field.

Similarly, it is the Washington press that all too often spreads the frequent notion that something will surely happen in politics or government because (a) it always has happened before; or (b) someone, some committee, some agency or some process is all-powerful and not to be denied; or (c) the conventions of the city and the system demanded that it should happen; or (d) no one can imagine that it might NOT happen.

So let the word go forth from this time and place: remember the Super Bowl, my colleagues, 'cause it ain't necessarily so.

Nixon, as he advances in a sense to his own Super Bowl, might as profitably ponder the lessons of the great upset, since he hopes to impose more system and more order on the practices and problems of the government, to make it more efficient — hence, more effective.

These are admirable goals, no doubt, but the new President might as well stand warned at the outset that, as the Jets showed, the activities and potential of men cannot always be charted, graphed or predicted; and that neither in football nor politics do order and efficiency always triumph over human inspiration, or even substitute for it.

Milford, Neb.

Thursday evening, Jan. 9, we listened to Governor Tiemann's speech on the news. No doubt many were pleased to hear of the great and wonderful social reforms he is planning to develop for our state. One of these was "open housing" legislation which (he says) will enable everyone to obtain the housing of his choice.

Everyone now seems to be so concerned with "civil rights." And yet in a recent issue of The Star, I read of another land grab by the Nebraska State Game Commission. I know the legal term for this is "acquiring land by the right of eminent domain." But to many of us who live in the rural areas, this is a threat to our civil rights. Some farmers are glad to sell their land in this manner, especially if it is rough land or poor soil, or is unimproved, having no buildings, fences, etc. Many others of us put a great deal of time and money into our farms which are our homes and a part of our lives. Should we willingly give these up for still another recreation area where funseekers can litter the countryside with trash and beer bottles?

If all the farmers who have had to give up their land should converge on the State Game Commission office in Lincoln for a "peaceful demonstration aimed at securing their civil rights," there is no doubt in my mind what the outcome would be. They would be asked to leave. If they remained, they would be taken to the police station and booked for causing a disturbance. And I don't think any effort would be forthcoming from Governor Tiemann or the Legislature to protect farm owners from having to give up their land against their wishes.

Nebraska is basically a farm state, but the farmers are the least concern of the state government officials.

All Should Help

Lincoln, Neb.

In regard to the letter about state plates, signed by "L. B.," in the January 11 Star, I hope that "L. B." does not wonder too much, as Mr. and Mrs. D's names are both on our car title. And don't think for one minute that I am not aware of extra costs work, laws, etc.

The law isn't strict enough in laws regarding "freeloaders." I say that it's nice to have good streets in our beautiful city but everyone should help to keep them that way.

We have paid our wheel tax and so on for a good many years. My husband retires this year and will not be using the streets as much, but he will be paying his wheel tax just the same.

Those UFO's

Lincoln, Neb.

The Star of January 8 brings up another interesting bit on UFO's, now insisting there is no real evidence that these mysterious flying saucers are manned by intelligent beings beyond the earth.

Today's confused seekers attempt to use as a solution the idea of swamp gas, but the first published reports in 1858 were long before there were cars, locomotion of any kind or swamp gas. During World War II our fighter planes encountered strange disks that could not be hit even at close range as they flashed around and about our fliers.

Today it is said that from the Blue Ridge mountain chain in western Carolina or Brown Mountain some 2,600 feet high, these lights can be seen on schedule.

These sightings have baffled and awed observers, including National Geographic Magazine and the U.S. Weather Bureau. Perhaps some day we may be able to explain what heretofore has been beyond human comprehension.

Gov. Hickel Inclined To Assume The Law

WASHINGTON — Walter J. Hickel has been taking the law into his own hands in his decision to remain as governor of Alaska even after his official appointment as secretary of the interior on January 20.

Apparently Hickel fears he may not be confirmed or that confirmation may be delayed; so he wants to hang on to his job as governor of Alaska.

This, however, is clearly against the Alaskan constitution, which states: "The governor shall not hold any other office . . ."

Hickel also ignored the law when he appointed Harold Strandberg, commissioner of public works, despite the fact that Strandberg had been a member of the legislature which voted to increase the salary of the commissioner of public works. For a legislator or a congressman to take a job for which he has voted a salary increase is against the constitution.

However, "I-Am-The-Law" Hickel carefully waited until the legislature had adjourned so Strandberg's appointment could not be challenged. When Joe la Rocca broke the story in the Fairbanks News-Miner, Hickel had his 28-year-old attorney general, Kent Edwards, write an opinion whitewashing the appointment. However, it's now being challenged by a taxpayers suit and remains illegal just the same.

Another case where Hickel put himself above the law was when he tried to remove Clem Tillion of Halibut Cover from the Northwest International Fisheries Commission's advisory board because he proposed increasing the severance tax on oil companies in Alaska. The oil companies had been paying only two per cent. The University of Alaska, after a study, recommended a severance tax of ten per cent. Tillion, a Republican member of the Alaskan legislature, proposed a two per cent increase.

Hickel, a great champion of the oil companies, was so irate at Tillion, his fellow Republican, that he wrote a letter to the Interior Department in Washington — which he will head next week — recommending that Tillion be fired from the fisheries advisory board. Tillion is a commercial king crab and salmon fisherman, eminently qualified to sit on the fisheries board, so the Interior Department refused.

To make matters worse, Hickel's office, when queried by the Fairbanks News-Miner, flatly denied that he had written the letter.

In his new job as secretary of the interior, "I-Am-The-Law" Hickel will be able to fire Clem Tillion, as he will also be able to ladle out oil leases with no questions asked.

Gov. Hickel also ignored a highway construction bond issue law voted by the people of Alaska in 1960 to build a highway from Fairbanks to Nome with $1,000,000 of state funds plus $19,000,000 of federal funds. Instead he is now building a winter trail to the north slope to help the oil companies.

This is in direct violation of the law which states: "It is the intent of the state to participate with mineral developers (in this case the oil companies) on a 50-50 matching basis."

Furthermore says Sen. Bob Blodgett, D-Teller, "state law provides that construction expenditures exceeding $20,000 shall be on a competitive bid contract basis.

"Gov. Hickel took the $1,000,000 general obligation bond issue dedicated to the ferry and the road bond program'', said Sen. Blodgett. He did this incidentally, without an OK from the legislature, but after a few individual phone calls to legislators . . .

Lyndon Johnson A Man With Sincere Beliefs That His Country Could Accomplish All Things

CHILMARK, Mass. — Lyndon Baines Johnson is now going home and at the end of his presidency, he is still one of the most intriguing and paradoxical figures in American history.

His weakness was that he was too strong. Loving and believing passionately in his country, he thought it could do anything and everything at the same time — wage war in Vietnam and in the cities, reconcile the races and the generations, bring all the conflicting commercial, racial and intellectual forces together in one grand patriotic coalition under his leadership. It was a glorious but presumptuous concept.

A man with less strength or presumption would have chosen more modest goals, but President Johnson wanted nothing but the very best. He swallowed at one gigantic gulp all the delicious bologna about the omnipotence of America. He genuinely believed in all the great pangs and longings and myths of his country, and was just strong enough to intimidate his associates and try to put all his dreams and yearnings into policy.

It didn't work but it was a good try, and the historians will probably be kinder to him than the inky wretches of the press. Vietnam drove him out of office, but his policy there will probably be seen in the long-run as a gallant if unsuccessful effort to punish wickedness and military aggression.

Never has an American president done so much for education and the poor or had so much trouble with the people who have benefited most from his policies.

The paradoxes are endless. He had a reputation as the "master politician" but weakened and almost wrecked the political machine which kept the Democrats in power for 28 out of the last 36 years. In private conversation, he was one of the most eloquent and persuasive advocates of his generation, yet somehow he failed miserably to get his ideas across to the American people.

In some mysterious way, he managed to lose the political support of his natural friends and win the support of his natural enemies but in the process not quite get the trust and faith of either. It is a puzzle. The politicians, the reporters, and even Johnson's best friends have failed to solve it, so it will have to be left to the historians and the psychological novelists and dramatists.

☆ ☆ ☆

Whatever anybody says, Lyndon Baines Johnson is a character, a force, and a personality deeper and in many ways more interesting than any president since Franklin Roosevelt.

He is not so much a cunning and calculating man, despite all the publicity to this effect, as an idealistic and passionate man. He really believes in all the sonorous platitudes, soaring fancies, and chautauqua rhetoric that have come out of the White House in the last few years; but even now, nobody has quite sorted out all his yearnings, motives, and psychological demons.

Fortunately, he can go home again. He is at peace with his family. His wife is probably the most remarkable woman who has presided over the White House in this century. And he loves the Texas country, whose assumptions and values got him into trouble in Vietnam.

In the United States, as in the Soviet Union, the "cult of personality" has had its run in Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson, and we are now probably going into a cabinet or collective form of government under Richard Nixon.

Douglas County Merger Is Proposed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha Tuesday proposed legislation which would pave the way for the merger of all municipal and county governments in Douglas County.

The metro plan, apparently patterned after the city-county consolidation in Miami and Dade County, would include all municipal governments in the county, with the sole exception of Boys Town.

Klaver's bill, LB309, proposes a constitutional amendment which would require voter approval in 1970.

In addition to Omaha, Douglas County includes such municipalities as Millard, Ralston, Valley and Elkhorn.

Personal Property

Another proposed constitutional amendment, sponsored by Sens. Willard Waldo of DeWitt, Maurice Kremer of Aurora and Irving Wiltse of Falls City, would permit the Legislature to classify and exempt personal property from taxation.

The measure - LB290, is identical to a proposal turned down by voters last November.

Tuesday's offering of 24 bills brought the Legislature's total to 311.

Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha proposed LB300, which would release any lien arising out of assistance to the aged, blind or disabled.

Air Base Housing

Sen. William Swanson of Lincoln authored LB301, which would permit the Lincoln Housing Authority to acquire former Lincoln Air Force Base housing units which are not low-income property.

The bill, Swanson said, would clear the way for the Housing Authority to acquire all of the federal housing units at the base.

Other new bills included Sen. J. Ames Waldron's proposals to establish minimum salaries for sheriffs at $6,000 annually, and minimum salaries for policemen in cities of more than 1,000 at $500 per month.

Sen. Donald Elrod's LB299 would make it illegal to leave a child of six or younger unattended in a motor vehicle for longer than 15 minutes.

Free Fishing

Sen. Ellen Craft of North Platte offered LB294, which would exempt all veterans 65 or over from payment for hunting or fishing permits.

Another Craft bill, LB293, would bar the state from planting additional trees within the right-of-way of the Interstate Highway.

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, chairman of the Budget Committee, presented a routine $487,500 appropriation bill to fund legislative expenses.

Senators Hear Poetry In Praise Of Colorado

By JAMES STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

Poetry doesn't often show its face around the Nebraska Unicameral. And poetry lauding other states is even more rare.

But 82-year-old Dave Stirling, poet-painter from Colorado, was undaunted Tuesday morning.

When the routine introduction of bills slowed to a temporary halt, Speaker Jerome Warner of Waverly introduced the elderly artist.

Stirling, who had first seen Lincoln in 1903 "from a covered wagon," marched forward leaning on a cane. From the podium he recited a poem entitled "Colorado."

Colorado Lauded

"Colorado — a place where the heaven drips gold," the poem went in part. "You have thrilled us and spilled us with wonder."

The poem, Stirling explained later, was written by Colorado's onetime poet laureate, the late Clement Yore, a friend of Stirling's.

"Y'all come see us," he urged the senators after he finished the poem. "Colorado is your next door neighbor. It's just like talking across the backyard fence."

Stirling said he is the only civilian resident of Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado. And his art gallery, he said, is the only business establishment in the park.

Official Ambassador

Just recently, he said, he has been made the official ambassador of the National Park Service. But for years he has performed that function "unofficially," he noted.

Stirling was in Lincoln to address a Thursday afternoon meeting of the Ladies Legislative League in the Governor's Mansion.

The city has changed over the years, he admitted. He saw it in 1903 for the first time — while trekking from Iowa to Colorado in a covered wagon.

"It was just a little town then," he said.

Bankrupt People Lose Cows, Pigs Under New Bill

Nebraskans would have to give up all their cows and pigs if they declare bankruptcy or have their property attached by the government under a bill introduced in the Nebraska Legislature Tuesday.

The bill would amend a law which now allows any person, whether or not he is a farmer, to keep one cow, three hogs and all pigs under six months of age if he declares bankruptcy or if he has his property attached by the state.

The section to be stricken by the amendment also allows a farmer to keep either one yoke of oxen or a pair of horses, whichever he desires, and 10 sheep and the wool from the sheep. Farmers also are allowed under the section to keep enough feed to feed for three months the stock he can keep.

They also are allowed to keep "one wagon, cart or dray, two plows and one drag; necessary gearing for the team herein exempted and other farming implements not exceeding $50 in value."

Still exempted would be such items as the family pew in a place of worship.

Atom Spy Morton Sobell Released

Lewisburg, Pa. (AP) — Convicted atom spy Morton Sobell was released from prison under a federal court order Tuesday after serving more than 17 years of a 30-year sentence for passing atom secrets to Russia.

Sobell left the Lewisburg Penitentiary at 3 p.m. Officials said the 51-year-old radar expert was taken from his cell to the bus station, where he left for New York City.

He was sentenced along with Julius and Ethel Rosenberg and a machinist named David Greenglass March 19, 1951.

The Rosenbergs were executed in June, 1953. Greenglass, who worked on atom projects during World War II, served a 15-year prison sentence.

Sobell's wife, Helen, a teacher here, said, "I feel wonderful. I'm ecstatic."

His son, Mark, 19, a computer programmer, said, "My father is innocent. It's about time they let him go."

Sobell, a radar expert, had filed more than a dozen appeals for freedom on varying grounds. The U.S. Supreme Court had refused him a hearing last November.

Warm Thought

Hong Kong (UPI) — Farmers and fishermen in Communist China have been instructed always to carry a book of Chairman Mao Tse-tung's thoughts and to read it whenever they feel cold, a recent arrival from China said.

Cosmos Orbiting

Moscow (UPI) — Cosmos 263, the latest unmanned Soviet earth satellite, was orbiting the planet every 89.8 minutes and its onboard equipment was functioning normally, Tass reported.

Efforts Underway To Keep Welfare Clinic Open

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Negotiations between some Lincoln physicians and the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department are underway in an effort to keep the city-county welfare clinic open for care of the indigent.

Dr. George Underwood, at a meeting of the Lancaster County Welfare Board Tuesday, reported that the clinic may be forced to close because local hospital residents now serving as the clinic medical staff can no longer serve.

He said that the St. Elizabeth Hospital residents (individuals taking training at a hospital beyond an internship) were informed by the new hospital Mother Superior, Sister Antonette, that they could no longer serve the welfare clinic.

'Interfering'

Sister Antonette told The Star that her decision was based on the fact that the residents' work at the clinic was "interfering" with their educational program at the hospital.

She said that they were spending so much time there that they were unable to spend necessary time at their residence training.

He said that the hospital residents had been used in recent years and used as the only medical staff in the last two years; prior to that time a combination of both physicians and residents were used.

Not Interested

Dr. Underwood told the board that because of the case load of most physicians they are not interested in work at the clinic.

He said he had understood that the Lancaster County Medical Society had passed a resolution that as a matter of policy it opposed retention of the clinic on the basis that everyone should have his own physician.

Leonard Peterson, executive secretary of the Lancaster County Medical Society, said the society had taken no position on whether the clinic should be closed and did not oppose the continuance of the clinic.

'Reduced Need'

However, he said, there has been feeling among medical society members that medicare and medicaid programs, which guarantee freedom of choice of physician, had reduced the need for the clinic and that care "as good or better" could be arranged with private physicians.

Physicians discussing the possibility of keeping the clinic open indicate that a clinic situation doesn't take the place of continued care of an individual and family by one physician, but that clinic care is better than no care at all

One physician said that it would take at least four or five physicians willing to give one day a week periodically to work in the clinic.

It was indicated that physicians wishing to keep the clinic open feel that placing those individuals now receiving care at the clinic in the care of practicing physicians would create an added case-load "problem for the already over-worked physician."

ETV Commission Moves To Improve Service In Southeast, Chadron Areas

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Educational Television Commission Tuesday agreed four translator installations are needed to boost reception in Southeast Nebraska and the Chadron area.

The commission authorized the filing of an FCC application for a translator at Beatrice, and engineering for installations as soon as possible at Falls City, Pawnee City-Humboldt area, and Chadron.

Commission Engineer Ray Ramsay said the signal-boosting installations for the population centers would cover 80% of the people, but rural reception would be marginal.

Major Gap

Southeast Nebraska has been the major "reception gap" in the state, and Chairman J. Arthur Danielson of Lincoln said ETV services to every citizen should be the goal.

The commission also agreed to have its engineering staff look into improving Channel 12 (Lincoln) reception in the Omaha area.

David Stahmer of Omaha said KUON-TV reception is spotty in Omaha, particularly in the city's predominately Negro Near North Side.

Solution Eyed

A Channel 12 translator for Omaha was suggested, but Ramsay said reception antennas might be a more practical solution than a translator.

Translator installations cost approximately $20,000, but the Beatrice one is estimated at $3,500 because of existing equipment.

The commission re-elected its present officers for 1969, including Howard Stalnaker of Omaha, vice chairman; Joseph E. Maresh, executive board member; Jack McBride, executive secretary, and Danielson as chairman.

To Receive Bids

The commission was advised construction bids for the commission's proposed Educational Telecommunications Building will be received Feb. 5.

The Legislature authorized the commission to take bids, but not to proceed with construction.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff has introduced a bill authorizing construction of a building, not to exceed $3.4 million, on the University of Nebraska East Campus. The legislation has been referred to the Legislature's budget committee.

Other commission action:

—authorized negotiations with the University of Nebraska at Omaha for placement of a FM antenna on the commission's Channel 26 tower.
—tabled until next meeting a proposal for the transfer of the KUON-TV license to the commission.

Housing Authority Law Revision Is Advocated

. . . TO END NEED FOR VOTE

By THOMAS EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

A change in Nebraska's housing authority laws that would eliminate voter approval of low rent public housing projects was advocated through a resolution Tuesday at a meeting of the Nebraska Association of Housing and Renewal Authorities, Inc.

The association will conclude its two-day sixth annual meeting Wednesday.

Association President Charles Denton, executive director of the Omaha Housing Authority, said the elimination of the referendum now required by the state statutes is necessary so that authorities will have units for low income people, especially the elderly, ready when the need arises for such units.

"It will facilitate planning by the authorities and yet not jeopardize public control concerning housing units," Denton said.

Council Controlled

He said projects by authorities require City Council cooperation and that the people control council decisions through the electoral process.

The amendment requiring a referendum vote on housing projects was put into the statutes in 1950.

Another resolution adopted called for updating state housing authority laws by eliminating the different requirements pertaining to Omaha and the authorities elsewhere in the state.

During the opening day activities, Herbert Hamilton, director of the Lincoln Housing Authority rent-lease program, was elected president of the association.

Keynote Speaker

Keynote speaker at the annual meeting was Orville E. Freeman, director of tenant and operations services at the Chicago regional office of the Housing and Urban Development Department (HUD).

Freeman, hired by the Public Housing Administration in 1952, spoke at the noon luncheon on the changes in the federal public housing program as they relate to Nebraska housing authorities.

Freeman, responsible for HUD administrative activities for all low rent programs in operation in the region, was presented a key to the city from Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf during an evening program.

Options Available

Freeman spoke on the different options available to housing authorities to provide assistance to the low income families.

He said much has been done for the elderly and the welfare families but that little has been done for those families with modest incomes.

Freeman defined the modest income family as one which, although not poor, is not getting paid well. He cited the beginning school teacher who cannot find an adequate place to live as one example.

'Can Be Served'

"This group is definitely one that can be served through federal assistance," Freeman said.

He also noted that Nebraska's laws on housing authorities are not as liberal as federal laws. He sided with officials of Nebraska housing groups by advocating changes in the statutes.

He told housing authority members that a trend toward cooperation of private enterprise with public housing authorities is gaining momentum throughout the country.

Freeman recommended the leased housing approach — the basis for Lincoln's housing projects presently — to housing authorities operating in communities whose "workable program for community improvement" has not been certified by HUD.

The plan permits local housing authorities to sublease units to families with the landlord retaining ownership of the building.

Mayor Schwartzkopf told association members Tuesday night that they should not back away from worthwhile programs for community betterment.

"In your hands will rest the final success or failure of our cities and its housing programs. It is always easy to criticize. But how many of us try to become part of a solution instead of part of the problem?" he asked.

Other officers elected for the next year were Faye Craig, Fairbury, vice president — housing; Patricia Berzina, Scottsbluff, vice president — renewal; Tracy Van Camp, Kearney, secretary-treasurer; and Donna Nelson, Newman Grove, Margaret Gilbert, Lexington, and Pansy Prater, Humboldt, directors for two-year terms. Janice Clark, Crete, was also elected to a one-year term as a director to fill a vacancy.

Garbage Disposal Problems Belong To Health Board

The Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Board was informed by Deputy County Atty. Floyd Sterns Tuesday night that the board has the responsbility to locate garbage disposal health problems in the county.

"But the only power it has is to report the problem to the proper authorities — either the offices of the city or county attorneys, or in some special cases, the state board of health," Sterns told the board in its regular monthly meeting.

In other action the board heard and approved several financial reports and a report on the hours of operation of the dental clinics.

Governors Press Plane Search

The governors of Nebraska and South Dakota Tuesday urged ground forces be organized to search for a missing plane carrying four members of the Augustana College debate team and two faculty advisors.

An extensive air search for the plane has thus far been unsuccessful.

The plane, which has been missing since Saturday night, was en route to Sioux Falls, S. D., from Colorado College in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Augustana students were identified as Joyce Estwick of Milan, Minn.; Linda Heidemann of Rapid City, S.D.; Al Jensen of Pipestone, Minn., and James Houseke, Shawnee Mission, Kan.

The two faculty members are Frayne Anderson and K. Don Tibbets, both of Sioux Falls. Anderson was piloting the craft.

The pilot made his last radio contact at North Platte.

South Dakota Gov. Frank Farrar and Nebraska have asked for additional assistance from the public.

They asked persons living in the search area for further leads on the possible whereabouts of the craft.

The governors also called for volunteers to organize search parties to look for the missing plane in the sparsely populated area.

Rogers Gets Post

Dr. Vance D. Rogers, president of Nebraska Wesleyan University, was elected to the Commission on College Administration of the Association of American Colleges at the group's annual meeting in Pittsburgh.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

The man who figures taxes phoned me in the chilly morning. "Have you got any money?" he asked.

I said cautiously: "What kind of money?"

He said: "I looked over your situation, and I think you can get a tax break with an investment."

Well, no point in the details. I did it, and we are now waiting for our ship to come in. So far no sails on the horizon.

☆ ☆ ☆

Once in awhile I get an urge for riches but have no luck.

I put a little money into a machine that murdered house insects silently. But it turned out it killed people, too. Or made them sick anyway. So that busted.

The best thing about going into business is you can read the financial pages and talk about it.

You say: "Did you see Ashtrays Common split two-for-one?"

Or you say, "I'm unloading all my airline holdings. I think they're overextended."

☆ ☆ ☆

I don't know why I had a corporation. Something about taxes.

The corporation turned out castiron verbs and wooden adjectives. I was president.

"When does it make money?" asked the household wren.

"It's supposed to lose money," I said. "That's the tax part about it."

She didn't get the idea. I made her vice-president and gave her one share of stock. Nice kid, but no talent for business.

☆ ☆ ☆

At dinner parties, I mentioned that I was incorporated. It impressed people who said later, "There's a smart cookie. He must save a fortune on taxes."

I called the lawyer and said, "When do we start saving on taxes?"

He said: "We must be careful not to pierce the corporate veil."

At one time I had a corporation and, while it never made any money, it was a great conversation piece.

I told my friends, "We are being careful not to pierce the corporate veil."

They were even more impressed. They didn't know a corporation had a veil. Neither did I. I went on paying taxes. I thought, "I wonder if I couldn't get a self-sealing corporation? Where if the veil was pierced, you could at least get to a gas station."

☆ ☆ ☆

A corporation costs a lot of money. But you get a beautiful corporate seal — a die machine you press. It leaves the seal on paper.

I pressed the corporate seal on all my desk blotters.

I held annual meetings. Minutes of the meeting were drawn up, and I signed them. "Nothing much happened. It was moved to adjourn." Signed, President.

I said, "We ought to have some activity. Like a corporate image."

The vice president said: "What is a corporate image?" (That is why she was still a vice president.)

I said, "All corporations have an image. Like they are owned by widows and orphans. That's a favorable image."

She said: "That isn't true in this case."

I said: "Don't push me. It could come sooner than you think."

☆ ☆ ☆

Well, the corporation drifted along from year to year. We never split any stock. We never pierced the corporate veil.

We were never mentioned on the financial pages — "Corporation reports record earnings for first quarter." I suppose because we had no record earnings.

Our earnings were modest. And the president worked like a dog to get those.

After awhile — for reasons now forgotten — I was advised to give up the corporation. (I don't know what happens to such a corporation. Does it go to a corporate heaven? Splitting its stock each heavenly day?)

I gave it up. And turned the corporate seal into a paperweight. Gone but not forgotten.

Court Will Hear Arguments In Area School Suit

The State Supreme Court reported Tuesday it will hear oral arguments Friday, Feb. 7, in the legal dispute over the Mid-Plains Area Vocational-Technical School in North Platte and the efforts of various counties to withdraw from that trade school district.

The suit currently on appeal was brought by Dr. Melville Chaloupka, Callaway physician.

Dr. Chaloupka challenges the granting of a supersedeas bond which permitted an election to proceed last November on withdrawal of counties from the district. District Judge Norris Chadderdon earlier had granted an injunction to block the withdrawal elections.

The "Sunday Journal and Star" is the week-end connecting newslink to your daily paper.

Annexation Case Transcript Filed

A transcript of prior proceedings was filed with the State Supreme Court Tuesday in a Grand Island annexation lawsuit which challenges the constitutionality of an annexation bill passed by the Legislature two years ago.

Hall County District Judge Donald H. Weaver held in November that the 1967 legislative act bearing on annexation powers for first class cities, LB508, is constitutional and that a specific Grand Island annexation based upon LB508 was valid.

The challenging suit was brought by Arnold Meyer and Meyer's Farm Equipment, Inc., which own property in the annexed area. Having lost the suit in district court, Meyer has appealed to the Supreme Court.

School Land Sales Law Termed Unconstitutional

By United Press International

The State Supreme Court was told Tuesday the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds is unconstitutionally being forced to hold a "garage sale" to dispose of the state school lands.

Norman Krivosha of Lincoln, attorney for Lancaster County Democratic Chairman Loren Belker of Lincoln who brought the suit against the sale of lands, said the board is being forced to violate the trust laws of the state through the sales.

"Must the board be forced to sell the school lands without allowing them to exercise their judgement on the prudence of the sale?" Krivosha asked the court during oral arguments.

Under terms of the law, Krivosha said, the board has no choice as to when to sell the lands, regardless of whether there is a depressed or inflationary market. This situation, he said, could result in a substantial loss to the state.

Krivosha said the Board of Educational Lands and Funds is the only authority constitutionally authorized to govern the public school land trust.

The Legislature, in enacting the law calling for the sale of the lands, invaded the authority of the board, Krivosha said.

"I ask this court to protect the board from violating the trust laws," Krivosha said.

Under the present market, the attorney said, it is better for the state not to sell the lands. However, he said, if the market were to improve the board should still be allowed to sell the land "according to its prudent judgment."

Assistant Attorney General Bernard L. Packett, however, said the Legislature has the right to direct the board to sell the lands.

But, he said, the Legislature is not ordering the board to sell the lands at any particular time. He said the board has the power to accept or reject the appraisals of the land before placing them up for auction.

Accent Is On Activity In Suburbia

When this month began we thought it would be a little like the calm after the storm of the holiday season parties, traveling and entertaining. But we quickly discovered that our suburbia residents maintain a very busy schedule of social activity, no matter what time of year it is, and they enjoy every minute of it.

Today we have news of two parties — one in the past and one for the future — a welcome addition to an Eastborough family, and glowing reports about a California and a Canadian vacation. Since we have so much news let's begin telling it.

Those California vacationers were Mr. and Mrs. Carel Stith who returned to their 2201 So. 60th St. home on Tuesday, Jan. 7. During their holiday Mr. and Mrs. Stith were the guests of Mrs. Stith's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Barker, former Lincoln residents who now reside in El Monte, Calif.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Stith were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Deets of Kearney and en route to El Monte, the foursome which left the day after Christmas went out of their way to stop in Plainview, Tex., where Mr. and Mrs. Stith had a business appointment. There also were stops in El Paso, Tex., and at the Carlsbad Caverns National Park, N.M. before they arrived in California.

While they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Barker, the Southbrook Summit residents were spectators at the Rose Bowl Parade and were entertained at several patio parties.

Other suburban travelers — but in the opposite direction — were Maple Village residents, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Handeland and children, Jeff and Kristin, who vacationed in Canada earlier this month. Preceding their trip to the country in the North, Mr. and Mrs. Handeland and family were New Year's Eve guests of Mr. Handeland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Birger Handeland of Estherville, Ia. After a short stay in Estherville, the Handeland family flew to Canada where they were entertained by Mr. Handeland's brother-in-law and sister, Pastor and Mrs. Charlaes S. Arndt of Erl Grey, Sask.
bylczzjean hugheslydeevsvsc

While there Mr. and Mrs. Handeland attended the christening of their godson, Marcus Arndt.

Miss Beers is a junior in elementary education at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority.

Mr. Edwards is majoring in English at the University of Nebraska where he also is a junior and where he is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

LBJ, Lady Bird Dine And Dance

BY ENID NEMY
(c) New York Times Service

New York — There were just about as many people involved in the arrangements for Monday night's party as there were guests. It wasn't considered at all unusual. The guests of honor were Lyndon Baines and Lady Bird Johnson.

The President and First Lady were honored at a private dinner dance at the Plaza Hotel. There were 16 hosts to arrange the guest list (seen in advance by the President), seating plan, decorations and, presumably, to pay the bill. And then the White House took over.

By late afternoon, secret service men were massed at various points in the hotel and scarcely anyone had a word to say, officially, that is, until the arrival of the major domo, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Carpenter, Mrs. Johnson's press secretary.

The hosts, Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Engelhard, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford II, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Krim, Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Loeb, Mr. and Mrs. Andre Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Laurance S. Rockefeller and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Weisl, didn't object.

They are all busily prominent people — in business, philanthropy, conservation and politics — and they got together, usually on the telephone, to decide on the more than 400 persons who would receive invitations. The staff of the President's Club, whose members are big contributors to the Democratic party, addressed and mailed the heavy cream-colored envelopes, but a spokesman added emphatically: "We had nothing to do with choosing the guests."

"We wanted to pay one final and happy tribute to the President and Mrs. Johnson," said Mrs. Loeb, the city commissioner to the United Nations. "This is an attractive and social way of doing it."

Almost no one refused a bid to the black tie party, attended by the President's daughters, Mrs. Charles S. Robb and Mrs. Patrick Nugent; the Vice President and Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey, and a contingent of cabinet members, among them Secretary of Transportation and Mrs. Alan S. Boyd; Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Orville L. Freeman; Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare and Mrs. Wilbur J. Cohen, and Postmaster General and Mrs. Marvin Watson.

However, three of the hosts were absent. Mrs. Meyer was in Europe as were Mr. and Mrs. Ford. Mr. Ford was represented by his two daughters, Mrs. Charlotte Ford Niarchos, the former wife of Stavros Niarchos, the Greek shipping magnate, and Mrs. Giancarlo Uzielli, whose husband is with the Loeb, Rhoades firm.

As guests moved into the grand ballroom, recently the scene of the wedding reception of the former Julie Nixon and David Eisenhower, they were greeted by a seating plan that a hotel spokesman called unique in my experience.

Each guest received a facsimile of a volume of 21 essays, presented to the President by Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. The brown leather bound book summarized and evaluated the achievements of the Johnson administration and was written especially for the occasion.

One Will Be The Belle Of The Ball

These attractive students at Lincoln General Hospital School of Nursing currently are sharing the same honor, for they are candidates for "Sweetheart" to be presented at the school annual Sweetheart Ball.

Appropriately, the ball will be held on Friday, Feb. 14 — St. Valentine's Day — at the Hotel Cornhusker, where the Sweetheart and her two attendants, selected by popular vote of the student body, will be honored.

From the left are Miss Donna, Adams; Miss Marsha Folts, Benedict; Miss Carol Hooper, Alliance; Miss Karen Lind, Tilden; and (on the floor) Miss Linda Bliss, Scottsbluff; and Miss Cheryl Wendell, Wilcox.

Incidentally, the candidates, who are all members of the senior class, will be escorted to the ball by members of Lincoln General Hospital's medical staff.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Dble
2 ♠	3 ♣	3 ♦	Pass
4 ♦

Opening lead — seven of diamonds.

This deal occurred in a rubber bridge game. If the bidding seems odd — particularly West's double of a spade — it should be viewed in the light of North-South's part score of 30.

West led a trump. Declarer won in dummy and returned a club. East put up the ten, which held, and led back a heart, South's jack losing to the ace.

West then cashed the ace of clubs and returned a heart to the king. South had lost three tricks — two clubs and a heart — and had to win the rest to make the hand.

Declarer's entire problem now was to avoid a spade loser. It seemed unlikely that a spade finesse could succeed, since the only high cards West had shown up with were two aces, and he was therefore almost sure to have the queen of spades.

But South, taking advantage of a slip that had occurred in the defense, proceeded to make the contract. After winning the king of hearts he cashed four rounds of trumps to produce this position:

Dummy now cashed the queen of hearts. East could not afford to throw a club, which would make South's nine a trick, so he discarded a spade. Declarer thereupon discarded a club.

South then led a low spade to the ace, East producing the nine, and continued with the jack, thus trapping West's queen (and East's ten) to make the contract.

West could have protected his partner against the squeeze by returning a club after he had cashed the ace. This would have eliminated the nine of clubs from South's hand and defeated the contract.

Pershing Mothers

The fathers will be special guests Thursday evening at the January meeting of the Pershing School Mothers Club, to be held at 7:30 o'clock in the school auditorium.

A program of music will be presented by the "Mickle Misses", pupils at Robin Mickle Junior High School, and guest speaker will be Dr. Donald Clifton of the University of Nebraska faculty, whose topic will be, "What You Do Makes A Difference".

Marriage

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Joyce Baldwin, daughter of Mrs. Lucille Baldwin, to Dale Dallas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dallas of Excelsior Springs, Mo.

The wedding took place Saturday evening, Jan. 4, and the 7 o'clock service was solemnized at the Christian Union Church in Rayville, Mo.

Beautify Your Complexion

Youthful, line-free loveliness is restored to the complexion when it is generously pampered at night. After removing your make-up massage gently the throat and neck with Olay vitalizing night cream. Pay particular attention to the crow's-feet area where ageing lines and wrinkles first appear. This skin treatment should be maintained during the day by smoothing in a film of oil of Olay before making-up.

... Margaret Merril.

The Beauty Program

As most of you know I am currently bringing you my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan. If you wish to do so, it is not too late to join the thousands of other women who have accepted the challenge. They plan to do a makeover job on themselves during the next eight weeks.

Many women procrastinate about reducing because they think they will have to prepare two sets of meals, one for themselves and another for their husband and family. This is far from true. You can use essentially the same menus if you adhere to the following tricks. These demand little extra effort or work.

In the first place you will notice that the portions are much smaller than those you have been accustomed to having. Those for your family can be more generous

You will also notice that herbs are used often to add flavor. So are tarragon vinegar, lemon juice, garlic salt, powdered ginger, paprika, and fresh parsley and chives. Canned chicken broth and consomme and bouillon are used instead of gravy. You are told to buy one of the low calorie salad dressings or make your own.

Since you are going to have a limited number of calories each day, what is the best way to divide them? This is an individual matter and to some extent depends on personal taste. However, it has been found that women lose weight more successfully when they do not skip a meal. Too long a time without food leads to fatigue and the reducer more than makes up for it at other times.

Here are today's menus.

BREAKFAST

½ small grapefruit sprinkled lightly with dried rosemary.

An omelet (made with one egg) cooked in a non-stick frying pan in 1 tsp. low cal Italian dressing; folded over ¼ of 1 broiled chopped, green pepper.

8 oz. glass skim milk

LUNCH

A Mixed Cold Cut Platter
2 slices of bread
1 oz. bologna
1 oz. ham
1 oz. Swiss OR American cheese, lettuce, mustard, 1 large dill or sour pickle, carrot sticks (½ carrot) celery sticks (1 stalk)

Coffee or tea artifically sweetened

DINNER

4 oz. scallops, broiled briefly, basted in lemon juice, garnished with a lemon wedge and freshly chopped parsley

3 stalks celery, sliced; braised in chicken bouillon

1 baked potato, dressed with 1 tsp. butter; sprinkle with paprika

Dessert: 1 slice canned pineapple

Bedtime Snack

Mix ½ cup orange juice, ⅓ cup pineapple juice, unsweetened, ⅓ cup skim milk

Total calories for the day—1155

If you would like to lose from 15 to 20 pounds in the next eight weeks you may want to join thousands of other women who are following my directions. If you have missed some of the series or would like to have my "Bip Kit" which gives you all directions and necessary information send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling and your printed name and address. BRING A FRIEND!

W.T. GRANT CO. 1005 'O' St.

Abby: he's sick

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a father who encourages his 10-year-old daughter to give him long, hard kisses on the lips? If she gives him a little peck on the cheek he pulls her back and says, "What kind of kiss do you call THAT?"

I will be honest and admit that he gets very little affection from me. You see, Abby, I don't especially care for my husband. Ever since I married him I have had to help him make a living and I am sick and tired of it. But I still don't think there is any excuse for his acting that way with his own daughter, do you?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Your husband should NOT be kissing his daughter in the manner you describe, no matter how little affection he gets from you. If you don't "especially care for him" — clear out and take your daughter with you. If you remain, you are encouraging a sick, sick situation.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the woman whose husband had not come near her in two years — since she'd had a hysterectomy. (She said he was the kind of man who went around their property, cutting down all the imperfectly formed trees.)

When I was a boy, I recall we had two apple trees. One was beautiful and perfectly formed, but it bore no fruit. The other bore fruit and showed it by its bent and broken limbs. Dad eventually cut down the beautiful but worthless one.

My wife bore me five beautiful children. Her breasts now droop and her belly shows not-so-lovely stria-gravida ("stretch marks") and plenty of them. But she will not be "cut down." She has born fruit, and to me hers is the most beautiful body on earth.

Sincerely,
An "M.D." in PASADENA, TEX.

DEAR DOCTOR: Please convey a message to your wife for me. Lady, you have a wonderful husband!

DEAR ABBY: You don't often pull a boner, but when you do it's a lulu. You mentioned the wives of a lot of men who had to get their hands dirty, among them were Thomas Edison, Charles Lindbergh, Walter P. Chrysler, and of all people THE WRIGHT BROTHERS. Abby, for your information, both the WRIGHT BROTHERS were bachelors!

Sincerely,
JACK H. in L.A.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Proud Claims No Preconceived Position On Branch Banking Bills

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha, chairman of the legislative committee which will consider branch banking bills, said Tuesday he has no preconceived position on the issue.

As chairman of the committee, I intend to listen to both sides. I'm sure they will effectively present the facts," Proud said.

And we will certainly give both sides every opportunity to be heard.

Then Decide

When that's done, I'll make my decision along with other members of the committee."

The branch banking issue is shaping up as one of the hottest legislative struggles of the 1969 session.

Twelve persons have registered thus far with the Unicameral as lobbyists interested in banking legislation.

Among them are David Tews of Lincoln, representing the Limited Branch Banking Committee, and Frank Rall and Jim Raglin, both of Lincoln, representing the Nebraskans for Independent Banking.

Ten persons have registered on behalf of the Nebraska Bankers Association.

Opposed By Majority

A poll of NBA members last year indicated a vast majority of them oppose branch banking.

On one side of the issue, favoring some form of branch banking, are four major metropolitan banks, among others, it is understood.

They include the Omaha National Bank, the U.S. National Bank of Omaha, First National Bank and Trust Co., of Lincoln, and National Bank of Commerce in Lincoln.

Nebraska's fifth major metropolitan bank, First National Bank of Omaha, is lined up with a host of smaller banks in opposition to branch banking.

Early February?

Proud said he expects to hear the bills in committee sometime in early February, but that's a guess."

The maneuvering for position has apparently already begun.

A spokesman for opponents of the legislation has approached Proud seeking an early hearing of the bills. A spokesman for the proponents has asked Proud for more time.

I see no reason for unreasonable delay," Proud said. Both sides have had considerable time to prepare themselves."

Well Qualified

Proud's committee, the Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee, is uniquely qualified to move with dispatch. It does not contain any senator without previous legislative experience.

Six of the members served in the 1967 Legislature, and the two others — Willard Waldo of De Witt and Herb Duis of Gothenburg — counted two terms of prior legislative service before they returned to the Unicameral this year.

Three of the committee members are Omaha senators. None hail from Lincoln.

Sen. Harsh Urges Doubling Of State's Aid To Education

By JAMES JOYCE
United Press International

State Sen. Lester Harsh of McCook said Tuesday he would like to see state aid to education doubled during this legislative session.

Harsh, chairman of the education committee, said he would like to see state aid to schools increased to $35 or $40 million a year during the coming biennium.

"I think we have an excellent chance of getting it," he said, "and I would support even a little more."

The state school aid law, passed by the 1967 Legislature, provides $25 million a year for Nebraska's elementary and high schools.

More Taxes

The veteran lawmaker, who was chairman of the Education Committee during the 1967 session, said he would favor increasing the state income tax or broadening the sales tax base to provide the revenue for increased state school aid if necessary.

However, he said, he does not favor enactment of an advertising tax unless taxes on services are also passed.

Harsh said he favors retention of the eight per cent spending limitation in the school aid law.

'Selling Point'

"I think we will have stronger support if we keep the limitation," he said. "It is one of the selling points."

The spending limitation has been criticized by many education groups and resolutions from these groups have urged the Legislature to eliminate the provision during this session.

In other state aid to education areas, Harsh said he doesn't think an increase in state aid to junior colleges is needed. He said Nebraska has all the junior colleges it needs "except maybe one ir two more."

He also said state aid to private schools is "quite a long way off."

'Short of Money'

"I'm sympathetic to private schools," he said. "They've helped us out a good deal. But we're short of money for other things."

Harsh said he is still opposed to mandatory school redistricting but said there is a need to reduce the number of school districts in Nebraska.

He said state school aid will provide "incentive redistricting" by equalizing the tax burden and allowing people to "choose the school and not protect the tax system."

The primary job of the Education Committee during the 1969 session, Harsh said, will be to "refine the problems brought about by the major legislation passed in the 1967 session."

Higher Education

In addition, he said, decisions will have to be made concerning higher education.

"I think it is extremely important that we decide to keep the quality of education at a high level and do not allow too many institutions of higher education or allow offerings too broad that it could develop into an expensive and inefficient system of education," he said.

"There are far too many high school and elementary school districts in Nebraska," Harsh said. "This is inefficient and expensive. I certainly hope we don't make the same mistake with higher education."

Total Of Former Solons Filing As Lobbyists Now 11

The number of former senators who have registered with the Legisature as lobbyists rose Tuesday to eleven.

David Tews signed on in behalf of five clients, including the Limited Branch Banking Committee and the Friends of Higher Education.

Ross Rasmussen registered for the Nebraska State School Boards Association.

Registrations now total 89.

17,000 Residents Of State Receive Food Stamp Help

—The U.S. Department of Agriculture said Tuesday more than 17,000 persons in Nebraska received food assistance under the department's food stamp program during November.

The total included 11,046 persons on public assistance and 6,136 persons not on public assistance, the department said.

It said the Nebraska participants purchased more than $219,000 in coupons and received around $97,000 in bonus coupons, an average bonus of $5.66 per person.

The department said nearly 676,000 persons participated in the program in the Midwest during November.

Persons participating in the food stamp program buy coupons which are used to secure food costing more than the coupon costs itself.

Meeting Slated

Crashes Into Sea

Nada, Okinawa (UPI) — A U.S. Navy F-8 Crusader jet crashed into the East China Sea about 10 miles northwest of the Naha Naval Air Base. The pilot, identified as Lt.j.g. Paul Ringwood of Glens Falls, N.Y., ejected safely from the craft and was rescued by a base helicopter.

Douglas County Merger Plan Reaction Varied

Omaha senators expressed varied reaction Tuesday to Sen. Sam Klaver's proposal to merge Douglas County and its municipalities into a single governmental unit.

An Associated Press sampling produced both support and caution.

Sen. Eugene T. Mahoney of Omaha saw it as "a good bill," likely to be supported principally by taxpayers who are "tired of paying for two types of governmental services."

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha said there might be some merit in consolidating certain functions of city and county government, but Klaver's proposal "seems extremely broad and far reaching."

Smaller towns in Douglas County can be expected to resist the move, Sen. Proud said.

These small towns "do not want any part of being merged with the city of Omaha," he said. "These towns have a great deal of pride in the way they operate local government. They are independent and I believe they want to stay that way."

If Klaver's bill should receive the necessary 30 votes to earn a place on the November general election ballot in 1970, the question would go to a statewide vote.

The result would be a judgment dictated largely by people over the state "who could care less how Douglas County is run," Sen. Proud noted.

Klaver's proposed constitutional amendment would direct that members of the governing body of the single governmental unit in Douglas County be elected from districts of contiguous and compact territory, of substantially equal population "and so designed as to insure fair representation of the population."

The amendment also would prescribe "that the general obligation bonded indebtedness of any city or village shall remain the obligation solely of the territory of such city or village as it existed immediately prior to the merger," and "for the establishment of one or more metropolitan districts as may be found necessary for the functional administration of services common to the area included."

Danner Seeks Voc-Tech School Discussion

Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha said Tuesday he hopes to meet soon with Gov. Norbert Tiemann to discuss the proposed establishment of a vocational-technical training school in Omaha.

Danner said he has neither a site nor money at this time.

"I have nothing now but needs," he noted.

Danner has introduced a bill to establish a school in Omaha.

Tiemann told the Legislature in his address last week that such a school should be placed in Omaha's predominantly Negro Near North Side.

The governor also plugged for such a facility in his 1967 inaugural address, suggesting that "there is clearly an immediate need" for a school in the North Side.

"Money is the difficulty," Danner said Tuesday.

"We are seeking a site, but so far there is no available property which I can put my fingers on."

Danner said he hopes federal funds may be available to help.

"I know the need is great," he said. "There are a large number of youngsters and a large number of adults who need this schooling."

Talkers Can Win

What the New York Jets' Joe Namath did Sunday may have set the theory of "Don't Make 'em Mad" back several years.

There are men in the coaching profession who shudder everytime they think about a writer talking to a player and possibly having that player say something that might make the opponent angry.

"Giving the opponent a psychological edge," they call it. Bulletin boards in football locker rooms across the country are filled every week with clippings that coaches hope will provide that psychological edge.

Some coaches become so concerned over this that they refuse to let their players be interviewed by the press.

Former Wisconsin coach Milt Bruhn absolutely would not allow it. When Phil Cutchin was at Oklahoma State, it was permitted only with a member of the OSU staff present.

Alabama's Bear Bryant put his players in seclusion off and on. Many others, who do permit interviews, give explicit instructions to the youngsters on what not to say.

Boast, Then Produce

These coaches will point to incidents where something that was written or said turned the course of the game —in their opinion.

Nebraska's Bob Devaney, although he permits interviews with his players, is one of those who worries about what they might say.

He became very angry with a writer a few years ago who quoted Bob Brown, just ahead of the Iowa State game, as saying the Huskers were looking forward to meeting Oklahoma that season.

The Huskers had some trouble with Iowa State that day, but they've had trouble with Iowa State every year regardless of what has been written or said.

But it was Devaney, who told NU sports information director Don Bryant when he went to Colorado a couple of years ago ahead of the game, "You can tell them that they'd better fasten their helmets on tight because we're coming out."

The Huskers barely escaped with a win. Last year after tying UCLA, Oregon State coach Dee Andros told writers, "We're tired of playing those No. 2 teams. Bring on No. 1."

USC came on and Oregon State won it, 3-0.

Clay Made It

Probably the most memorable talker who produced was Cassius Clay, who told opponents what he was going to do to them, then did it.

Babe Ruth did it that day he produced on his called home run in Chicago in a story that may or may not be true.

Then Joe Namath did it last week, telling the Colts and everyone else what the Jets were going to do to Baltimore. His statements, according to those who deal in psychology, was supposed to give the Colts two more touchdowns.

It's a good thing he gave them that extra edge or the Baltimores would have been a minus-seven.

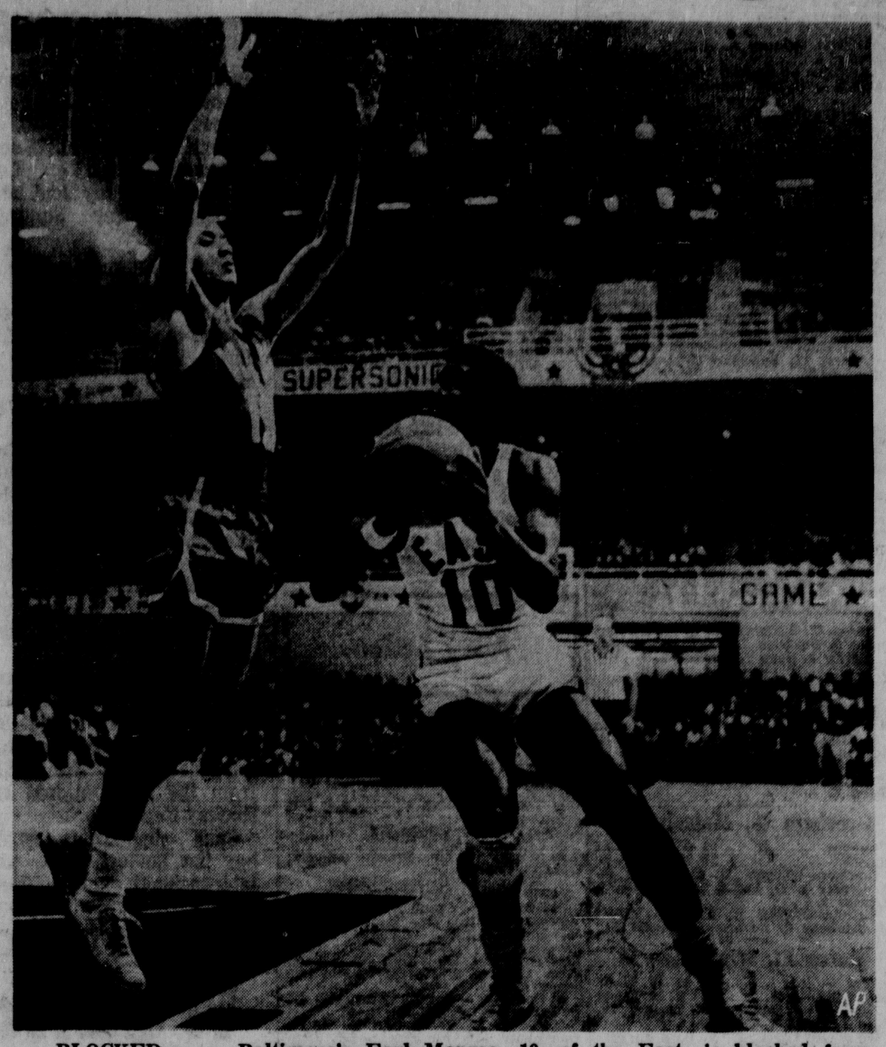

What Joe and the Jets proved was that sports events are won on the field, not in the newspapers.

Which is fortunate for all of us who follow sports.

BIG O LIFTS EAST, 123-112

Robertson's 24 Defeats West In All-Star Game

. . . BAYLOR KEYS LOSERS

BLOCKED . . . Baltimore's Earl Monroe, 10, of the East, is blocked from shooting by Seattle's Len Wilkens.

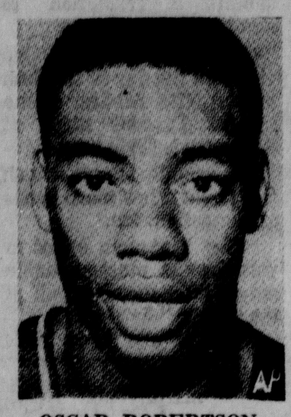

Baltimore (AP) — The East, sparked by the all-around brilliance of Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, stormed to a 123-112 victory over the West Tuesday night in the 19th annual National Basketball Association All-Star Game.

Robertson, voted the games' Most Valuable Player more for his quarterbacking and assists than his game-high 24 points, helped the East to a 16-point lead in the first quarter, 35-19.

The West, however, with Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles as the key man, barged back into contention, took the lead at one point in the third period, then wilted under a Robertson-led rally.

The West's rally from the big first quarter deficit was a slow one, closing to 60-53 at the half and then into the third.

The action was tight through the third quarter and frantic through most of the fourth until Robertson's three-point play with 7:19 to go.

OSCAR ROBERTSON

Slipping into the open at the foul line, Oscar dropped one in over the head of rookie Elvin Hayes, and covered the free throw when he was fouled.

Baylor and Earl Monroe swapped jump shots until Baltimore favorite Gus Johnson converted a driving dunk shot, a twirling hook and a foul shot while the West could manage only a goal by Wilt Chamberlain.

That put the favored East out in front again by eight points and they had it in the bag.

Chamberlain, who finished second in the voting for the center spot to Hayes, didn't enter the game until seven minutes had gone and the San Diego rookie had scored only two field goals.

Hayes finished with 11 points, Chamberlain with just four.

Earl Monroe, who finished with 21 points, combined with Robertson in the big first half, each scoring 10 points.

In the early going Boston's John Havlicek and Bill Russell worked like partners on the offense while Cincinnati's Jerry Lucas and Robertson did the same. And the other East starter, Monroe played by himself.

When East Coach Gene Shue and his coaching counterpart Richie Guerin started to substitute, the brand of basketball became more of the playground variety.

Johnson tried especially to please, twisting and cavorting as always, letting out a Tarzan yell while hoarding a rebound. Helped off the floor after a collision with 3:15 to go in the game, Gus limped back to sink two foul shots and make it 112-104.

Hayes' rookie opposite, East's Wes Unseld, contributed 11 points as well, but his 11 were more crucial.

Replacing Russell with 4:10 left in the third period and the score knotted 77-all, Unseld contributed six points, the last a three-point-play as the East went into the final quarter leading 86-83.

Baylor led the West's scorers with 21 points.

Yaz Among Few

When Carl Yastrzemski retained the American League batting title last season with a .301 mark he became the eighth player in league history to take back-to-back hitting titles.

Howard's High

Frank Howard hit a career high of 44 home runs with the Washington Senators last season.

Commissioner Lombardi? Maybe

. . . MR. FOOTBALL MERITS CONSIDERATION FOR TOP BASEBALL JOB

© New York Times Service

By ARTHUR DALEY

New York — There is nothing restrained about Vince Lombardi's laugh. It is full-bodied and emerges from the depths with the explosiveness of a volcano. Only close friends normally hear it because the retired coach of the Green Bay Packers is in the habit of keeping his emotions under firm control. But when Lombardi lets go with one of his guffaws, the room shakes.

It happened just before the Super Bowl in Miami the other day. It had to be before the Super Bowl because it's a cinch that no one connected with the National Football League would permit himself even a weak smile after it.

During the week before the big upset, a rumor was floating around Florida's Gold Coast that Vince's name had been tossed into the hat as worthy of consideration for the vacant position as baseball commissioner. This was such a startling switch that it had to be investigated. So the most dynamic of the Packers was cornered and the question tossed in his direction.

"How do you feel about this 'Commissioner'?" he was asked, and there was just enough mocking inflection to the query to trigger a roar of uninhibited Lombardi laughter.

"I don't know how that rumor started," he said when he finally subsided, "But I've been getting so many calls about it in the last few days that it's been running like a pianola. I don't even know if there is the slightest substance to it. It's such a prestige position that I'd have to talk to the baseball people if the offer ever were made. I'll tell you one thing: I love baseball."

"Whoa!" he was told. "That's Happy Chandler's line. He used it so much when he was commissioner that he invited ridicule." Vince began to laugh again.

"I honestly do love baseball," he said. "I played baseball all through high school and on the sandlots. I played freshman ball at Fordham — I was a catcher and outfielder — but then spring football practice took me away from it for keeps. But I've remained a fan and I must say that the baseball commissionership would pose a very interesting challenge."

And no man in sports can put a challenge to utter rout with more decisiveness and finality than Lombardi. He came to Green Bay in the dual role of general manager and coach, starting from behind scratch with a franchise that was hopeless to the point of being moribund. Yet he created a dynasty. Although Lombardi the coach was the main architect, Lombardi the general manager was the administrator who moved into chaos and produced one of pro football's most efficient and smoothest running front office machines.

Maybe he has no chance of ever being elected baseball commissioner — presuming that he'd accept the job if it were offered to him. Yet there are so many fascinating aspects to the mere idea of Vince as the baseball overlord that they cannot be resisted.

He mentioned that the commissionership was a "prestige position." But if he were to be selected, he would lend his own enormous prestige to the assignment. That would have to be important to the baseball bunglers and dawdlers who have denigrated the supposed No. 1 post in their sport. Vince is such a no-nonsense guy that his very presence would elevate the job to the status it enjoyed under Judge Kenesaw (Mountain Landis and baseball would gain a corresponding rise in public esteem, an item it desperately needs.

But do the diamond fathers really want a strong man or do they prefer to watch their life blood drain away with stooges? Can they subordinate individual selfishness for what's best for the game? Will the two leagues ever get enough sense to stop fighting each other and close ranks against all common enemies?

Landis knew nothing about baseball but was a great commissioner. Pete Rozelle had only a limited knowledge of football and he's turning out to be a great commissioner. So the fact that Lombardi's baseball background is mostly of the schoolboy and sandlot variety should have no bearing on the situation. He has all the other qualities, including character.

There's no way of telling, of course, whether anything could woo Vince away from football. He's still general manager at Green Bay although every rumor about shuffels in higher echelons elsewhere offers his name as a franchise saver. In each such instance he would get a piece of the action as a part owner — or so the rumors would have you believe.

Commissioner Lombardi? He would be a good man for baseball to grab if it could. He would be a good man to run any show, including General Motors. Those despairing baseball fathers should at least take a searching look in his direction even if it would mean yielding to his domination.

'Brutal' Alpine Skiing Not Hurting Gals' Looks

Austria (AP) —The world's Alpine ski girls are getting prettier every year.

Several of the Swiss ski girls look like fashion models . . . Judy Nagel of Enumclaw, Wash., Kiki Cutter of Bend, Ore., and Nancy Greene of Canada, could easily advertise tooth paste with their beaming smiles . . . Austria's Olga Pall can pit her measurements against those of many a beauty queen.

So why are they saying Alpine skiing is getting brutal?

Apparently tough competition does not prevent a girl from looking attractive.

Nobody knows who coined the term "brutal skiing" but at least one top skiing official, Austria's head coach Franz Hoppichler, is fond of using it.

NANCY GREENE

He explains he means Alpine skiing now makes new demands on the competitors. Competition has become fiercer.

But all this does not spoil the good looks of the ski damsels.

A doctor associated with ski races for a long time explained:

"How can anyone who lives healthy, does not smoke or drink, goes to bed early, leads an outdoor life and is constantly checked by doctors fail to show his or her blooming health?"

You would have no trouble seeing that Olga Pall is all girl. That France's Annie Famose is getting more feminine every year, that her compatriot Isabelle Mir has adorable freckles and that West Germany's Rosi Mittermaier has the cutest ponytails.

Those are the favorites along with the two American teenagers, Judy Nagel and Kiki Cutter, and Austria's Gertrud Gabl, another good-looker.

The only trouble in this picturesque Alpine village right now is the Foehn, a warm wind which caused temperatures to rise well above zero.

But if there are no new snowfalls or, even worse, rain, the downhill track for Wednesday's Golden Key race would still be highly selective because it is a very difficult course. More than one hundred competitors from 15 nations are entered. Only the Russian girls failed to come.

—STERLING DROPPED TO SILVER SPOT IN 'D' LISTINGS—

Pirates Grab Ratings Gold

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

In Class D high school basketball, just as in the Olympics, the gold belongs to the first placer, the silver to second.

So it's appropriate that the Elmwood Pirates get the gold. Since the names Sterling and silver go together, it's second spot for the previously top-ranked Jets.

It was a bad weekend for the top-rated clubs in the small-school division. Not only did the Pirates make Sterling walk the plank in convincing fashion, but No. 2 Spalding Academy got the business from previously unranked Wolbach.

By disposing of the leader, Elmwood earns the top spot, moving up from its already lofty No. 3 position. Sterling just drops to second as the two teams which will likely fight for a single berth in the state tourney prove to be the class of the division.

Don't ask Sterling coach Larry Rathe how easy it must seem to be in Class D after having such a good year in Class C last winter. His club, which won 13 straight to start the previous season, didn't lose a second time until the semifinals of the state tourney as the Jets compiled a 24-2 mark.

This year it was after only eight games that Elmwood turned the trick. This time the Jets were the favorites. But just like last Sunday when the Jets were football underdogs, it was no fluke happening.

Coach Larry Horstman's Elmwood crew played a determined, hard-nosed brand of ball. The Pirates were a tough defensive unit and strong on the boards. They were quick, aggressive and alert. An expected rematch in the regional playoffs should be a dandy.

Some major reshuffling took place elsewhere within the top ten as some of the more formidable teams began to emerge. Two replacements came into the picture as Clarks and Wolbach jumped into contention, replacing Hardy and Meridian which both suffered weekend losses.

4—Dorchester (8-1)	9—Loomis (8-1)

Comment—Elmwood moves to the top after stopping Sterling in the Mudecas finals, while Spalding Academy, second to Sterling a week ago, tumbles even further after being dumped by previously unrated Wolbach.

Soccer Manager Plans To Retire

London (AP) — Matt Busby, who escaped death in the crash of the Manchester United Club's plane at Munich 10 years ago, said Tuesday he would retire as the soccer club's manager this spring.

He will continue as general manager.

Eight players were killed in the crash and two others were so badly crippled they never played again. Busby rebuilt the club and it again is one of the glamor teams of British soccer. He was knighted by Queen Elizabeth a year ago when United won the European championship.

Barbara Jo Slated To Go At Tropical

Miami (AP) — Barbara Jo Rubin, the teen-ager seeking to become the first girl jockey at an American parimutuel race track, has been named to ride a horse in Wednesday's fourth race at Tropical Park.

But the horse, Stoneland, is on the also-eligible list and may not get to run.

The Tropical season ends Thursday and action then shifts to Hialeah.

If the 19-year-old exercise girl performs capably in her first race she will be issued a riding license.

'Lifted' AFL Stars Eye Sunday Tilt

Jacksonville, Fla. (AP) — The lift the American Football League got from the New York Jets' Super Bowl victory was reflected in the spirit players brought to practice Tuesday for Sunday's AFL All-Star game in the Gator Bowl.

Even with the 11 members of the world champion team still absent, the rest of the East squad went through a fast-paced session.

Coach Wally Lemm of the Houston Oilers, making his first All-Star coaching appearance since 1961, said he expects no problems because the New York group missed the Monday and Tuesday workouts.

"They will be in good physical condition, and the squad should be just about even physically when we are all together Wednesday," he said. "It won't take long for pros like these to get ready. They all have pride."

Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins quarterbacked the East in its single practice period.

Coach Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs gave his West squad double work — morning and afternoon. All but the 10 Oakland stars had been off the football field four weeks, and it was three weeks for the Raiders.

"Their attitude is terrific," Stram said as the players worked with enthusiasm. "People are mistaken if they think the pros don't express animation."

He had one absentee, tight end Billy Cannon, Oakland. Stram sought to find out if he was en route.

Fullback Hewritt Dixon of Oakland, watched from the sidelines. He had fluid drained from an injured knee recently but will be reay to run Wednesday.

Coaches, Players Liked To Vote For All-Stars

. . . PRESS SHOULD LOSE PRIVILEGE

Baltimore (AP)— Richie Guerin, coach of the Atlanta Hawks, favors taking the National Basketball Association's All-Star vote away from the press and giving it to the coaches and players.

"Remember the years when the Boston Celtics were dominating the league," Guerin asked.

"They'd always pick Bill Russell, Bob Cousy and Bill Sharman. But Tommy Heinsohn was always left out, even though he was one of the best forwards in the league.

"That's because they have a rule you can only pick three players from one team. But how can it be a true All-Star game if you don't pick the best players available?

"I've asked our club to submit a resolution to change this rule."

Guerin expressed his views on the day of the 19th annual NBA All-Star game set for Tuesday night at Baltimore's Civic Center.

The erudite Atlanta coach tossed out a few more bones of contention, too.

"They sent me a ballot to vote for the most valuable player after the first half of the season," he said.

"Two of my three picks were Wes Unseld and Billy Cunningham. But the writers didn't name either of these players to the first team.

"No one has been more valuable to the Baltimore Bullets than Unseld. What the heck, he was the only change they made this year, wasn't he? And who has helped a club more than Cunningham helped the Philadelphia 76ers.

"And what about Kevin Loughery? He didn't even make the team, and nobody has been more consistent for the Bullets. And I've got to say it was just as great an injustice to leave off my boy, Bill Bridges."

Soviets Face Pressure To Tour As Scheduled

. . . HOCKEY TRIP CANCELLED

Winnipeg, Canada (AP) — Gordon Juckes, executive director of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said late Tuesday that international pressure is being brought to bear to have Russia reverse its decision to cancel an eight-game tour of Canada that was to have started Friday.

The Russians announced the cancellation in Moscow earlier Tuesday. Their team was to have left for Canada Monday night. Cancellation of the games would mean a loss of about $35,000, Canadian officials estimated.

The games were to have been a preparation for the world hockey championships in Stockholm, Sweden, March 15-30. A sellout of the 16,485-seat Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens already had been announced for Sunday's game.

The last-minute action of the Russians recalled a similar cancellation of the Soviet-United States track meet in Los Angeles in 1966.

The Russians then blamed the U.S. involvement in Vietnam. This time they said financial agreements had gone awry and added that the Canadian team they were scheduled to meet was competing in a Colorado tournament.

There is no tournament scheduled in Colorado this month.

If the Russians do not change their mind, the Canadians have asked for "immediate and full suspension" of the USSR from the International Ice Hockey Federation.

Such suspension would bar the Soviets from any international competition, including defense of their world championship at Stockholm. Juckes said he had received no direct word from Soviet hockey officials that the Canadian tour had been cancelled, aside from a garbled cable received late Monday.

However, a press report of the cancellation from Moscow Tuesday had been confirmed by the Canadian embassy there.

Juckes said that on the basis of present information it appears the cancellation also applied to a tour by the Moscow Selects, a Soviet B team, for late February and early March.

"I would like to emphasize, however, that the CAHA has not accepted this cancellation and we have been in touch with international hockey officials to have the Soviet decision reversed.

As to Moscow reports that the Soviet team was dissatisfied with terms for the Canadian tour, Juckes said all terms had been proposed by the Soviets and agreed to by the CAHA.

Russell Attacks NBA Officiating

Baltimore (AP) — Boston Celtic player-coach Bill Russell, performing in the first half of that category in Tuesday night's National Basketball Association All-Star game, can't expect many breaks from the referees.

The star center chose the All-Star scene to present his opinion that "we've got more bad referees than ever before." Russell has been in the Celtic pivot since 1956. He went on to blast the schedule, saying "this game stopped being a pleasure for me five years ago and the big problem is playing so many games in a row."

Russell blames the poor officiating partly on the league's expansion.

Wounded NFL Tries To Smile

Los Angeles (AP) — The kidding was good-natured but it was obvious the wounds are deep for National Football League players following the New York Jets' 16-7 triumph over Baltimore in Sunday's Super Bowl.

The best of the NFL's best were gathered at the annual Pro Bowl luncheon, pointing toward Sunday's 19th annual East-West All-Star game.

Earl Morrall, the Colts' losing quarterback, received a warm ovation when introduced.

"You look great," said master of ceremonies Frank Bull.

"I wish I felt great," said Morrall, smiling weakly. "But you can't change the scoreboard."

As for the game coming up, Morrall said, "We've got to play a lot better. We'll be facing better material."

Morrall and the Los Angeles Rams' Roman Gabriel will quarterback the West. Don Meredith of the Dallas Cowboys and Fran Tarkenton of New York's Giants will pilot the East.

Gabriel was asked for a prediction on the Pro Bowl outcome.

"Well," said Gabriel, "I predicted the Rams would play in the Super Bowl and the Colts would clobber the Jets. As for a Pro Bowl prediction, I don't want to start the new year off wrong."

Engel Prep Cage Star This Week

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Hemingford's Bruce Engel has been sitting on the bench with an injured knee since midway through the football season.

He wasn't able to see action during the final portion of the gridiron season, or up to last weekend in basketball.

But, with his teammates trailing Hay Springs by nine points and just two minutes left in the game, he came off the bench to pace Hemingford to a senational comeback win.

The inspiration he provided his club and the personal part he played in the come-from-behind win earn the six-foot senior Player of the Week honors.

Engel scored five of his team's nine points in those final two minutes as Hay Springs was held scoreless to send the game into overtime. Hemingford went on to win, 70-65.

Others who had top performances which deserve special mention include:

Don Nitchie, Wilcox — His 19 points and 24 rebounds thwarted a Pleasanton upset bid in an unusual game. Only six fouls on Wilcox in the whole game, just seven on Pleasanton.

Dan Beck, Elmwood — A tireless worker on the backboards who also led the scoring with 24 points as Elmwood beat Sterling to take over No. 1 in Class D.

Randy Coleman, Paxton — Scored 21, 36 and 37 points in his last three outings as Paxton makes a real run at the Class D leaders. Coach Gary Streeks blessed with balanced scoring, had at least two other players in double figures in the same games.

Rick Roth, Milford — Hit five field goals in a row in the crucial fourth quarter to give Milford the Atlas Conference championship against Central. Had 20 points in the title game.

Dave Hunt, Republican City — Tied 51-all going into the final quarter against Hildreth, Hunt, who led the scorers with 26 points, came up with ten of them in the fourth period to give his club a 70-65 win.

Jerry Oliver, Shelton — Led his team to a 51-45 upset win over Wood River when he scored 19 points. It was the first Louplatte conference win for Shelton in four years.

Davis Cupper Osborne In Omaha Net Field

Omaha — Jim Osborne, a member of the U.S. Davis Cup squad, has become the eleventh player named to participate in the Omaha International indoor tennis championships Jan. 26-30.

The 24-year-old Honolulu standout is ranked No. 8 in the U.S.

HHH Seeks To Weaken Weapon Of Filibuster

Washington (UPI) — In one of his final acts as vice president, Hubert H. Humphrey dealt a potential death blow Tuesday to the South's most sacred Senate weapon — the filibuster.

Humphrey ruled that by a simple majority vote, the Senate can cut off debate concerning its own rules. Previously, a two-thirds vote was required.

The unprecedented ruling — denounced by southerners as unfair, illegal and a "ruling that can blow the light out of this institution" — set in motion a complicated parliamentary schedule which may run into next week and make Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew the final arbiter of one of the Senate's most ancient and controversial questions. Agnew becomes vice president Monday.

Sponsors

Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and James B. Pearson, R-Kan., sponsors of the anti-filibuster move, declined to predict the outcome of their effort to dilute the filibuster.

Church said he was sure of 39 votes. He needs 51.

The filibuster, used repeatedly by southern Senators to kill or dilute civil rights legislation, is based on a Senate rule permitting debate to run on and on unless two-thirds of the Senate votes to end the talk, a hard majority to muster.

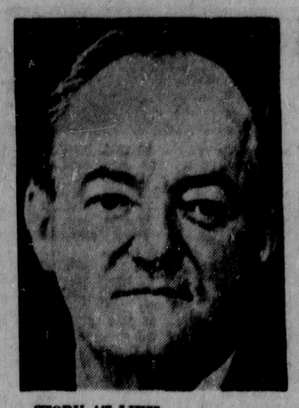

In effect, Humphrey made the annual vote on the Senate rules themselves immune from the two-thirds provision. "A majority can cut off debate in the beginning of a new Congress when rules are taken up," he told the Senate.

100 Hours

But to actually change the rules and substitute a three-fifths cut-off rule as advocated by Church and Pearson, the Senate must vote favorably twice, endure up to 100 hours of debate, then get another ruling from the presiding officer — by that time Agnew — and finally vote favorably three more times.

"I'm not prepared to say we'll win the battle this year," Church said. "But we are gaining strength. I think history is moving in our direction."

Humphrey said he was only carrying out a precedent set forth by another vice president — Richard M. Nixon. But unlike Nixon in his "advisory opinion," Humphrey characterized his action as a "ruling" which the Senate must vote on under strict limitations on debate.

4 Jurors Seated For Sirhan Trial

Los Angeles (AP) —Four women had been tentatively seated as jurors by the end of Tuesday's session of the Sirhan Bishara Sirhan murder trial.

And one of the defenders of the 24-year-old Jordanian charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy quoted Sirhan as saying: "I am satisfied with the way things are going."

Seated during the afternoon of the second day of jury selection were Mrs. M. Alicia Duke, divorcee who works for the state lands division, and Mrs. Barbara L. Collins, a telephone worker.

The selection of four prospective jurors in two days doubled the progress expected by the defense.

NU Regents Hold Closed Meet With Tiemann

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents held a closed door meeting with Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann in Lincoln Tuesday in what was believed to be an attempt to get Tiemann to raise his budget recommendations for the university.

"All I can say at this point is that we talked about the budget," said Regents President Richard Adkins of Osmond. Adkins and the other five regents had no further comment on the 75-minute meeting which was held in the governor's private office.

Tiemann said only "no comment" when asked about the meeting.

Others Present

Also leaving the meeting were the president of the Lincoln Campus of the university, Joseph Soshnik, University Public Relations Director George Round and Robert Barnett, an administrative assistant to Tiemann.

Acting NU Chancellor Merk Hobson said only that the session was an opportunity to "informally discuss some problems from our point of view for the next two years."

The governor last month submitted a proposed budget to the Legislature which included a request for $68,232,751 for the University of Nebraska. The regents had asked Tiemann for $101,014,122.

The current biennial appropriation for the university is just short of $55 million.

Tiemann also said he would suggest a $4 million capital construction appropriation for the university instead of the $23 million requested.

Tiemann's original budget figures are not necessarily final, however, since he has not yet submitted his formal budget proposals.

Ominous Reports Spotted By Israel

[redacted]

Jerusalem — Premier Levi Eshkol warned Tuesday that reports of Israeli troop concentrations along her borders, similar to those that preceded the Arab-Israeli war of June, 1967, were "being concocted" again.

Speaking before parliament, Eshkol recalled that a Soviet allegation in May, 1967, of an Israeli buildup along the Syrian border had prompted an Egyptian buildup in the Sinai Peninsula "and dragged the entire region into the abyss of war."

Eshkol's remarks were contained in a lengthy commentary on France's recent extension of her arms embargo to Israel.

The reports from Arab capitals of an impending Israeli attack troubled officials here. The foreign office issued a formal statement earlier in the day "emphatically" denying the reports emanating from Arab capitals and Moscow of an imminent attack on Jordan and Lebanon.

The reports said Israel would attack just before President-elect Richard M. Nixon takes office in order to lessen the effect of American reaction. Nixon is scheduled to be inaugurated Monday.

Impartial observers in Israel, both official and unofficial, have found no evidence of an impending Israeli attack. Qualified authorities regard such a move as out of the question, politically as well as militarily.

France Pledges To Aid Lebanon

[redacted]

Paris — The French government pledged Tuesday night in effect to come to the aid of Lebanon in case of an attack by Israel.

A spokesman for the French foreign ministry declared "I can confirm that in the name of our friendship and in the name of stability and peace France will not remain indifferent if the existence of Lebanon is threatened."

2 Church Women's Groups Prepare For Official Union

State women's organizations of the former Evangelical United Brethren Church and the former Methodist Church held adjournment sessions Tuesday to pave the way for official evening uniting ceremonies.

The two groups met separately to wrap up final business and will meet as a group Wednesday to organize activities and elect officers for the new conference — the Women's Society of Christian Service.

The groups were formerly known as the Evangelical United Brethren Women's Society of World Service and the Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service.

The official uniting service was held at a Tuesday evening banquet at Pershing Auditorium with Bishop Noah W. Moore of the United Methodist Church presiding over the ceremonies. The theme of Bishop Moore's sermon was "United We Go Forward."

Participating in the ceremonies were former WSCS president Mrs. Russell Brown and former WSWS president Mrs. Richard A. Heim.

About 600 women attended the banquet.

The first meeting of the newly-formed organization will be held Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. at Nebraska Wesleyan University's Fine Arts Center. Major business items will be the election of officers and committee members and the outlining of new projects.

Ft. Calhoun Bank Sues To Force Charter Granting

A lawsuit aimed at forcing the State Banking Department to grant a charter to the Ft. Calhoun Bank in Washington County, north of Omaha, was on file Tuesday in the Lancaster County District Court.

The suit asks reversal of State Banking Director C. R. Haines' Dec. 12 order denying the bank charter application.

The bank contends the decision was arbitrary and capricious and was not supported by competent evidence.

Named defendants were Haines and five banks which opposed the charter application — Washington County Bank, Blair Bank, Arlington State Bank, Bank of Bennington and North Side Bank of Omaha.

Stock Market Closes Higher

New York (AP) — The stock market bounded ahead Tuesday in one of its few advances of the New Year. Trading was at a moderate pace.

Prices were mixed at the opening but firmed around midday and closed at their best level of the session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials posted a gain of 5.22 at 928.33 after having been down more than a point in early trading.

Eldon A. Grimm, senior vice president of the big brokerage firm of Walston & Co., called the rally "a rebound from an oversold condition."

The Associated Press 60-stock average advanced 1.8 to 348.0 with industrials up 2.9, rails up 0.8 and utilities up 0.8. The New York Stock Exchange common stock index rose .40 to 57.17.

Of 1,583 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 837 advanced, and 497 declined. There were 10 new 1968-69 highs and 19 new 1968-69 lows.

Volume on the New York exchange contracted to 10.7 million shares from 11.16 million Monday. The trading pace accelerated late in the session and the ticker tape was two minutes reporting floor transactions at the close.

Ina Corp., up 3 at 46¾ on 216,000 shares, was the most-actively traded issue. Also very active were Benguet, off ½ at 14½, and United Aircraft, up ¾ at 66½.

Steels advanced solidly on news of U.S. confirmation that Japanese and European steel producers had agreed formally to cut back their steel exports to the United States this year and maintain voluntary export restrictions in 1970 and 1971.

Aluminums also were strong following price increases for the metal. Among advances were Alcan, ⅝ to 28½; Reynolds Metals, 1¼ to 42¾; and Alcoa, ¾ to 75.

Among the bigger gainers were Bath Industries, 5⅜ to 65, and Cities Service, 3⅝ to 77. Both stocks had been recommended by brokerage firms.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange. The exchange index rose 23 cents to $31.66. Volume edged up to 5.44 million shares from 5.41 million Monday.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Keogh Act Permits Shift To Other Qualified Plans

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Retirement Plans

A number of readers have asked about the right to change their minds under the Keogh Act self-retirement plans about the method of accumulating tax deferred earning assets.

Having selected one permitted avenue for a qualified plan, some want to shift to something else.

Since this column does not undertake to give legal advice, I asked former Congressman Eugene J. Keogh, the author of the legislation, now a practicing attorney in New York City, for clarification. He said: "My understanding is that one might with relative ease transfer any securities acquired under the act to any other trustee or form of security that might be desired, and I am pleased this can be done without incurring any tax liability."

It is suggested that, in making switches, investors be guided by advice from a lawyer related to the specific action contemplated. An alternative to hiring an attorney is to ask for an opinion from the regional office of the Internal Revenue Service.

New Acceptance

With the new acceptance of common stocks for long term investment by colleges, hospitals, charitable organizations, pension funds, trustees, investment trusts and individuals, business management no longer declares a lack of interest in the price at which its shares are quoted in the stock market. Half a century ago when only bonds and mortgages were acceptable investment media and shares were deemed speculative, corporate executives traditionally remarked that the price of their stock was of no concern.

In an appearance before the St. Louis Society of Security Analysts, C. Virgil Martin president, Carson, Pirie Scott & Co., the department store chain, which he describes as a growth enterprise, clarified the reasons for the shift in executive attitudes toward the stock market. He said: "Now it seems to me that, with the rapid developments in modern business, with merges and conglomerates, it is doubly important that management be concerned at all times about the market price of its company's shares. There are two basic reasons for this concern:

"1. The shareholder receives only part of the earnings on his investment through dividends. The balance, of course, is poured back to strengthen and develop the company. The shareholder has the right to expect that, when he sells his shares the price he gets will reflect the increased intrinsic worth of the company.

"2. In these days of corporate intermarriage, shareholders of a corporation whose basic soundness is not reflected in a reasonable price per share will suffer in an interchange of stock with a corporation which may have no greater earning power or potential — but which has a much higher price-earnings multiple.

"We don't want our shares to sell for one cent more than they are truly worth; but we feel our shareholders are entitled to our efforts to see that our shares are not underpriced, either."

May Overemphasize

Electronic journalism may overemphasize the views of show biz personalities who purport to act as social interpreters.

Specifically, in this New Year, superficial observers circulated the view that 1968 was a terrible year. They focussed on such tragedies as the assassination of Reverend Martin Luther King Jr. and Senator Robert F. Kennedy; the war in Vietnam; riots on campus; and the spread of the "Burn, baby, burn" cult.

But such cliches were one-sided and incomplete. An objective balance sheet appraisal of 1968 would include the good developments as well as the bad.

The year saw 12 of 92 months of affluence, unemployment dropped to the lowest level in 15 years — 3.3% of the work force, corporate earnings were up, and American achievement was symbolized by the encirclement of the moon by three American astronauts.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Kidnaped Girl Found; Police Seek Abductors

Whittier, Calif. (AP) — Paula McGinnis, kidnapped from the home of her well-to-do-parents Tuesday, was found unharmed Tuesday night, wandering along on the street.

Police Capt. Edward Hatch said the 2½-year-old girl was spotted in the LaMirada area by a motorist.

The motorist advised the Los Angeles County sheriff's office, which told Whittier police the tot answered the description of the girl taken from her home by two men posing as telephone repairmen.

"The girl is in good condition and has been returned to her parents," said Hatch.

He said a search was continuing for her abductors.

The girl was in the care of a housekeeper at the $70,000 home when the men arrived at 9 a.m.

They tied up the housekeeper, identified only as a Mrs. Mitchell, and left with the girl, who was clad in a light blue sleeper outfit.

The father, Frank McGinnis, owner of McMall Tool and Machine Co., in nearby Santa Fe Springs, was at work. The mother, Irene, was shopping.

Nursing Home Project Plans Are Reviewed

A team of regional and federal Hill-Burton hospital facilities officials spent Monday and Tuesday reviewing the programs for the proposed Tabitha and Madonna nursing home projects.

At the request of the State Division of Hospital Facilities, the group reviewed the Lincoln nursing homes' plans for nursing care and for equipping the new facilities, reported engineer Keith Beilby.

The consultants will review their findings and recommendations with the state agency before they are announced, according to Sheldon Miller of Washington, D.C., health services director of the Hill-Burton program.

Miller said that both Tabitha and Madonna have "very interesting proposals. Some proposals are consistent with the best practices of the country."

The group will have suggestions for additional features that could be incorporated into the nursing homes' program, he pointed out.

Efforts Continue To Settle Strike

Washington (AP)— Negotiations continued Tuesday in an effort to resolve a six-day-old strike by the Wire Service Guild against The Associated Press.

At the request of a federal mediator, both sides withheld comment.

The AP and the Guild, a unit of the American Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, had been called into talks, starting Monday, by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

The works of the Westminster Abbey clock date from 1860, though the dial is 17th century. It was designed by Thomas Buggins of Clerkenwell.

County Board Defers Action On Request For 11 Holidays

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday deferred action on a request by the County Employes Association that 11 holidays be given county employes during 1969 since the move into the new building had not taken place.

The county last year had made an agreement with the city on eight legal holidays so that there would be uniformity in what days the new County-City Building would be closed.

In addition to the holidays agreed upon last year, the county employes are asking they be granted Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12; Arbor Day, April 22, and Columbus Day, Oct. 12.

The group also asked that they be given Friday, Feb. 21, since Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22, falls on Saturday.

County Attorney Paul Douglas, present at the board meeting at the time the request was made, said he was opposed to closing that Friday since this is nearing the deadline for obtaining license plates.

"The public has the right to that day . . . and the county will invite nothing but criticism" if it closes that Friday, he said.

County Clerk Carl Hartman said he felt that perhaps a bill should be introduced in the Legislature setting county holidays to avoid the problems each year since elected officials may open and close at will and the county board has no official jurisdiction over holidays.

The problem of holidays also arose at the meeting of the County Welfare Board with a request by County Welfare Director J. Earle Trabert that the county set some countywide policy on personnel regulations and holidays.

He said that his office has been observing holidays agreed upon by the county, but in other areas such as sick-leave pay and personnel regulations he is forced to follow state regulations.

Trabert said that if the county would adopt the state holidays and adopt a countywide set of policy regulations, many problems would be eliminated.

Bourne Named Chairman Of Lancaster County Board

Republican Kenneth Bourne was named chairman of the Lancaster County Board of Commissioners at the board's annual reorganizational meeting Tuesday.

Wendell M. Whalen of Omaha was elected a director of City National Bank at the board's monthly meeting, according to Board Chairman Ralph E. Misko.

Whalen is president and majority stockholder of Dellen Enterprises, Dellen, Inc., 2700 Corp. and Custom Biologicals, all in Omaha.

Library Meet Set

The Library Board will hold a special meeting on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the South Branch library, 27th and South Sts., to consider the capital improvements program for the library system.

Advisers To Meet
